Acknowledgements

There are many people who have helped me complete this study. I may not be able to name each one of them here but I would like to mention a few who have provided the support and help I needed. I would like to express my gratitude:

To my guide, Dr. V.D. Thomas, for encouraging me to research on this topic. I am very grateful for his guidance, his patience in understanding and resolving my doubts, correcting the chapters and helping me put things in perspective.

To the Head, Dean and the Staff members of the Dept. of Education and Psychology for their help at various stages.

To Mr. Vardarajan, the principal of The Bharatiya Vidya Bhavans, for allowing me to work with the children of Class VIII. And Mrs. Ekbote, the class teacher of the group I worked with. She was always around to help and organize the class.

To Mrs. Neera Mathur, the principal of Sawai Man Singh Vidyalaya, Jaipur, who allowed me to pilot test the study with the children of Class VIII in her school.

To Tinu, who was the co-facilitator in the intervention program. Her presence and feedback were extremely useful. I enjoyed working with her immensely.

To all the children I worked with, both in Jaipur and Vadodara. It was a great learning experience to work with them and their enthusiasm and cooperation is something that will stay alive in my memory forever.
To Sangeeta Chaudhary, Dept. of Home Science, Vadodara, for providing me with valuable information and a content validation schedule on stress.

To Preeti, Sunil and Gauri, for providing a home away from home. Without their help and emotional support, this task would have been extremely difficult.

To Purwa, my mother, who was with me during the last phase of report writing and submission. I am very grateful to her for having the patience to listen to all my worries and confusions, helping me in corrections and the security that her presence provided.

To my family in Jaipur and Hyderabad, who were always there to boost my morale.

To Chakradhar, my husband, who stood by me in all the difficult times and provided that extra push to complete the research, whenever it was needed. I would not have been able to do this without his love and support.

To all my colleagues in the department who have provided help, feedback and important information at various stages.

To all my other friends and relatives, who have been very encouraging and supportive.
