ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am to convey my immense gratitude to my supervisor Professor M. N. Karna for his valuable guidance, counsel, encouragement and patience at every stage of my research, which motivated me to undertake, complete and present this thesis in this form.

I am extremely grateful to Prof C. Lima Imchen of the Department of Sociology who gave every possible academic inspiration, suggestion and comments on the theme of my investigation.

I particularly express my thanks to Dr Paula Banerji, Department of History, Calcutta University, Kolkata for offering me valuable suggestion and guidance for consulting different libraries in Kolkata. I also thank Dr Ramesh Madan, Deputy Director, I.C.S.S.R, New Delhi for helping me and instructing me to visit various libraries in Delhi.

The secondary materials for my work were collected from various libraries at Delhi, Kolkata and Shillong. I acknowledge with a deep sense of gratitude for the help provided by the librarians and staff of the NEHU Central Library, the State Central Library, Shillong and the North Eastern Council Library, Shillong. I am grateful to all the teachers of the Department of Sociology, NEHU for providing me with all the facilities and source materials for my study. My special thanks go to the I.C.S.S.R. Eastern Regional Centre, Calcutta, the Northern Regional Centre, Delhi and the North Eastern Regional Centre, Shillong for giving me financial assistance to visit various libraries located in these regions.

I thank all my respondents who had patiently given their time in course of my fieldwork. Many persons in their different capacities helped me in numerous ways towards completion of this thesis. I would like to thank all of them for their help in carrying out the field survey.
My thanks are due to Mrs. Narisha for her painstaking efforts in processing this manuscript and together with my friend Mr. Lalhmachhuana, Documentation Officer, Central Library, NEHU helped me carefully in printing and binding.

My thanks also go to Dr. Temsula Ao, Professor, Department of English, NEHU, for translating the patriotic song from Ao to English.

My heartfelt gratitude goes to my parents, sisters, brother and nephews to whom I owe all my achievements in life, for their unfailing support, fortitude and selfless sacrifice offered to me till this day.

Above all, I thank the Almighty God for all His countless blessings showered upon me to this day.
