ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In this auspicious moment, I humbly genuflect in front of that “Great Spirit” pervading everywhere in the universe, which inspired me, guided me and gave me strength in all the tough situations.

I deem it a privilege to avail this opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude and sincere regards to my supervisor, Dr. O.K. Remadevi, Scientist-F and Head, Wood Biodegradation Division, Institute of Wood Science and Technology (IWST), Bangalore for sharing her expertise in the selection of topic for my doctoral study. I gratefully acknowledge her constant encouragement, support, critical and ideological contribution, prompt and benevolent guidance at every step during the course of this study.

Also, I duly acknowledge my co-supervisor Dr. T.O. Sasidharan, Adjunct Fellow, Ashoka Trusts for Research in Ecology and the Environment (ATREE), Bangalore, for his immense support and constant guidance throughout the tenure of my research.

I am extremely grateful to Shri. S. C. Joshi, IFS, Director, IWST, Dr. S.K. Sharma, Scientist F and Nodal Officer of FRI University for IWST, former Nodal Officer of FRI University for IWST Dr. R. V. Rao, and Dr. Suresh Gairola, IFS, former Group Coordinator (Research) IWST, for their valuable suggestions, constant help and encouragement shown during the course of the investigation and also for all the facilities extended for executing this work.

I owe much more than I can express, and my sincere debt of gratitude are due to the members of the Research Advisory Committee, Dr. C.A. Virakatamath, Emeritus Professor, GKVK, Bangalore, Dr. Prashanth Mohanraj, Principal Scientist, NBAII Bangalore and Dr. R.
Sundararaj, Scientist F, IWST, Bangalore for their valuable guidance and timely suggestions and critical discussions on the subject.

I thank Institute of Wood Science and Technology, Bangalore for providing me platform for research and extending all necessary supports and infrastructural facilities they rendered during my entire course of work.

I take this opportunity to thank Peter Smetacek from Nainital, officials at Zoological Survey of India, Prof. G Mathews, KFRJ, for their support extended in identification of moths.

I sincerely acknowledge Dr V. V. Sudheendrakumar, KFRJ and Dr. T. V. Sajeev, KFRJ for providing me with laboratory reared insects critical to my research study.

Special thanks are due to Dr Sagar and Ms Hema, NIMHANS for their support provided to TEM study and Dr C.R. Vossbrink, University of Connecticut, for his support on R-DNA sequencing.

I express my sincere gratitude to Mr. T V Mohandas, IFS, DFOs, ACFs and RFOs of Forest Divisions across South India for the kind permission and great help they rendered to me during the field work in entire coastal areas of Karnataka.

I express my thanks to Dr Lalith Achoth, for his immense support on statistical analysis critical to my study, Mr. Y.B. Srinivasa, Scientist-D, for his critical advice on my study. Helps rendered by the scientists and staffs of entire IWST is acknowledged with heartfelt thanks.

I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to Dr Praveen Karant, CES, IISC and Asha Lakshmi C N, CES, IISC for their guidance provided on phylogenetic study. I would also like to thank Shri Ponnanna, CES, IISC for the support provided in the course of my study.
I take the opportunity to thank research scholars and my friends in IWST for their encouragement and suggestions which helped me to complete this research in smooth way. Especially, I convey my hearty thanks to my friends Smitha S G and Revathi for their continuous support. I express my deep gratitude to Dr. Deepa B and Dr Debojyoti Chatterjee of IWST for their critical comments. My sincere thanks are due to Mr Balachander, Ms Sapna Bai and Ph.D scholars of WBD, IWST for their support in every step of my research.

Finally, my family members deserve special thanks. From the depth of my heart, I acknowledge my husband Mr. Sudipto Shankar Dasgupta for his all time support and constant encouragement, my brother Mr. Adroha Bhattacharya for his positive criticize and suggestions and all the members of my family who supported me directly or indirectly to carry out the research work successfully.

The execution of this work was made possible through the financial support of Department of Science Technology, Government of India and I thankfully acknowledge the fellowship granted to me for completing this work.

Exhilaration and satisfaction on the successful completion of this work owe a lot to the sincere efforts of many people and to all of them I would like to express my sincere gratitude.

(Jayeeta Bhattacharya)