ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I fail to check my eyes going wet at the thought of the sacrifice on the part of Dr. N. Malla who not only showed me the beacon light all through, but also regulated my endeavour with a filial touch to the full flowering of the present dissertation without whose able guidance and minute supervision, the dissertation might not have taken the present form. Feelings are more persuasive than verbosity. I owe all the best of my feelings to the soul unparalleled.

I express my deep gratitude to the members of my Supervisor's family who were able to produce smiles in my most trying times.

The ungrudging helps from Prof. L. K. Parida, Dr. D. Behara and Dr. D.C. Pati will remain ever unpaid.

I owe an onerous debt to Dr. P.N. Shaw who had taken all the burden of the Department during my constant absence.

I am highly thankful to all my students who forebore with perseverance the inconveniences caused to their study by my long absence from the college.

I take this opportunity to put on record the help extended by my brothers and friends for the smooth completion of the work.

I find no words to give my innermost feelings for the enlightening advice of the teaching staff of the Department of Philosophy, NEHU.

Mr. Joseph and Mr. Anthony deserve all credit for the neatness of the dissertation.

I acknowledge, with love, the silent sacrifice of my wife and little daughter who had undergone the pangs of separation for a long time due to my academic pre-occupation.

Last but not the least, with deep anguish, I dedicate this humble piece to the noble soul of my father who would have rejoiced with tears of ecstasy with this small work of mine, if he would have alive today.
