Chapter - 1
INTRODUCTION ................................................................. 01 - 12

1.1 Background of the Study ---------------------------------------- 02
1.2 Statement of the Problem ---------------------------------------- 03
1.3 Key Research Questions ----------------------------------------- 05
1.4 Objectives of the Study ----------------------------------------- 05
1.5 Propositions of the Study --------------------------------------- 06
1.6 Potential contributions of the study ----------------------------- 06
1.7 Scope and limitations of the Study ------------------------------- 09
1.8 Chapterisation -------------------------------------------------- 10

Chapter - 2
CHANGES IN THE ECONOMIC GEOGRAPHY OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE ......................................... 13 - 50

2.1 Changes in production patterns ---------------------------------- 13
   2.1.1 Factors fueling this increase ------------------------------- 16
   2.1.2 Shifting Governance Structures ------------------------------ 18
   2.1.3 Explanations for changing trade patterns ------------------- 19
2.2 Theorizations about The Changing Geography Of Trade --------- 24
   2.2.1 Porter’s management approaches ----------------------------- 25
   2.2.2 Filiere Approach -------------------------------------------- 25
   2.2.3 The Global Commodity Chain (GCC) Approach ---------------- 26
   2.2.4 Types of Global Commodity Chains --------------------------- 27
   2.2.5 The role of governance in GCCs ------------------------------ 27
   2.2.6 The GPN Approach ------------------------------------------ 28
2.3 Evolution of the GCC Approach ---------------------------------- 28
   2.3.1 Emergence of the Global Value Chain (GVC) Approach ------ 29
   2.3.2 Effects of the GVC approach on developing country firms --- 29
   2.3.3 Problems faced by supply side firms ------------------------ 31
   2.3.4 Benefits of global value chain analysis --------------------- 32
2.4 India’s Textile and Apparel Trade ------------------------------- 34
   2.4.1 The Indian Textile Scenario ------------------------------- 34
   2.4.2 Emphasis on Small Scale Production ------------------------ 35
   2.4.3 The Kannur home furnishing industry ----------------------- 36
   2.4.4 Using the VC approach to study cluster advantages -------- 38
2.5 Background of the Study

2.5.1 Historical linkages of the region
2.5.2 The Role of the Basel Evangelical Mission in Kannur
2.5.3 Objectives of the Basel Mission
2.5.4 Historical origin of handlooms in Kannur
2.5.5 Early forms of weaving
2.5.6 Origin of the frame loom
2.5.7 Initial products and commercialization

2.6 Initial Export initiatives

2.6.1 Evolution of the export trade
2.6.2 Community building through the handloom enterprise
2.6.3 Unique Organization of work

Chapter - 3

REVIEW OF THE LITERATURE

3.1 World trade in textiles and apparel
3.2 The Commodity Chain and Value chain literature
3.2.1 Governance in Global Value Chains
3.3 Emerging trends in trade globalization
3.3.1 Global sourcing
3.3.2 Outsourcing
3.3.3 Trends in retailing:
3.3.4 Moving responsibility to suppliers
3.4 The Multi fiber Agreement
3.5 The Indian Textile and Clothing Complex
3.5.1 Historical Background
3.5.2 Structure of The Indian Textile Industry
3.5.3 The Evolution of Handloom Industry
3.5.4 The Reforms Era In The Indian Textiles &Clothing Sector
3.5.5 Constraints of the sector
3.5.6 Policy Based Constraints
3.5.7 Adjustments In India’s T&C Industry- Emerging Issues And Trends.
3.5.8 Trends in the Industry post 2005
3.6 The Small Scale Sector in relation to T&C
3.6.1 High Road And Low Road Growth.
3.7 Cluster Development
3.7.1 Clustering As a Rival Theory
3.7.2 Collective Efficiency
3.7.3 Clusters in Global Value Chains
Chapter - 4
THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK OF THE STUDY

4.1 The Value Chain as a Tool for Analysis

4.1.1 The value chain is a source of rent
4.1.1.1 Schumpeterian Rents in Value Chain Research
4.1.1.2 Firm or endogenous rents
4.1.1.3 Resource Based rents
4.1.1.4 Relational or Chain Rents
4.1.1.5 Exogenous Rents
4.1.1.6 Relevant data sources:

4.1.2 Value Chains Exhibit Governance

4.1.2.1 Governance In Value Chains
4.1.2.2 Types of standards
4.1.2.3 Legislative Governance
4.1.2.4 Judicial Governance
4.1.2.5 Executive Governance

4.1.3 Typology of the value chain

4.1.3.1 Identifying of the type of value chain

4.1.4 Upgrading in Value chains

4.1.4.1 Types of Upgrading
4.1.4.2 Sources of Upgrading
4.1.4.3 Relevant Data Sources

4.1.5 Identification of Critical Success Factors in final markets:

4.1.5.1 Order winning and order qualifying CSFs
4.1.5.2 Developing Radar Charts

4.1.5 Aspects of the buying function

4.1.5.1 Examining the key buyer segments
4.1.5.2 Examining the important product groups
4.1.5.3 Examining the major destinations of sales

Chapter - 5
THE DESIGN OF THE STUDY

5.1 A mixed method research strategy

5.1.1 Benefits that result from MMR
5.1.2 Reasons for using mixed methods
5.1.3 Specific outcomes of the use of MMR

5.2 Types of MMR Designs

5.2.1 Specific Type of MMR Design Used In the Study
5.2.3 Benefits sought from the use of this design

5.3 Sequential design issues and strategies:

5.3.1 Sample Participant Issues
5.3.2 Criteria for Selection of Participants
5.3.3 Decision on Results to be used. .............................................. 135
5.3.4 Decision on when to implement qualitative data collection ...................... 135
5.3.5 Contradictory findings ................................................................ 136
5.3.6 Other design issues .................................................................... 136

5.4 Structure of the sequential exploratory mixed method design. .................................................. 136
5.4.1 Strands of the Study ................................................................. 136
5.4.1.1 Strand I: Multiple Holistic Case study Research .............. 137
5.4.1.2 Steps followed in Case study research ......................... 138
5.4.1.3 Descriptive Attitudinal Survey as Strand II ................. 140
5.4.1.4 Benefits from the use of the Survey ............................. 140

5.5 Strand I: Case Study Research Method ............................................. 141
5.5.1 Why case studies? ................................................................. 141
5.5.2 When to use case study designs ............................................ 142
5.5.2.1 Types of Case Study Designs ...................................... 143
5.5.2.2 Type of case study design in the study ....................... 145
5.5.2.3 Other design issues: ....................................................... 146

5.6 Case Analysis: Use of Qualitative Data Analysis Techniques ............................................... 146
5.6.1 Research considerations when using QDA ........................ 146
5.6.2 Research Paradigms Discussed ........................................... 148
5.6.3 Philosophical orientations .................................................... 149
5.6.3.1 Ontology: ................................................................. 149
5.6.3.2 Epistemology ............................................................ 149
5.6.3.3 Axiology: .............................................................. 150
5.6.3.4 Causality ............................................................... 152

5.7 Strand II: Descriptive Attitudinal Survey Research ...................................................... 152
5.7.1 Sampling frame used for the study. ...................................... 152
5.7.2 Development of the research instrument .......................... 153
5.7.3 Sampling Procedure .......................................................... 153
5.7.4 Development of the research instrument ....................... 154
5.7.5 Study areas covered in the Survey: ................................ 154
5.7.6 Ensuring reliability of the instrument .............................. 157
5.7.7 Statistical techniques used in the study ............................. 157
5.7.7.1 Choice of Statistical Tests ......................................... 158

Chapter 6

ANALYSIS OF STRAND I: CASE STUDY RESEARCH ............. 161 - 447

6.1 Structure of the Analysis of Case Data ....................................... 161
6.1.1 Process of case study analysis ............................................ 162
6.1.1.1 Development of the Interview Transcripts .................... 162
6.1.1.2 Interpretation of the interview transcripts .................... 163
6.1.1.3 Coding of interview transcripts .................................. 163
6.1.1.4 Types of Codes ........................................ 165
6.1.1.5 Development of researcher memos .................. 166
6.1.2 Identification of codes from case data .................... 166
   6.1.2.1 List of apriori codes relevant to study .......... 167
   6.1.2.2 List of Emergent Codes Relevant To Study .... 170
6.1.3 Structure of the Case Study Report ....................... 171

6.2 Individual Case Analysis: Firm M ............................. 173
   6.2.1 Bird’s eye view of the firm M ......................... 173
   6.2.2 Backward and forward linkages of firm M ........... 175
   6.2.3 Prior codes discussed from interview transcripts .. 176
      6.2.3.1 Sources of rent in the firm ..................... 176
      6.2.3.2 Sources and types of governance .............. 182
   6.2.4 Emergent codes identified from interview transcripts 188
   6.2.5 Inferences from individual case analysis of firm M 218

6.3 Individual case analysis of firm H ........................... 228
   6.3.1 Bird’s eye view of the firm H ......................... 228
   6.3.2 Backward and forward linkages of firm H .......... 230
   6.3.3 Prior codes discussed from interview transcripts .. 231
      6.3.3.1 Sources of rent in the firm ..................... 231
      6.3.3.2 Sources and types of governance .............. 241
      6.3.3.3 Sources and types of upgrading .............. 254
   6.3.4 Emergent codes identified from interview transcripts 256
   6.3.5 Inferences from individual case analysis of firm H 285

6.4 Individual Case Analysis of Firm S .......................... 295
   6.4.1 Bird’s eye view of the firm S ......................... 295
   6.4.2 Backward and forward linkages of firm S .......... 297
   6.4.3 Prior codes discussed from interview transcripts .. 298
      6.4.3.1 Sources of rent in the firm ..................... 298
      6.4.3.2 Sources and types of governance .............. 310
      6.4.3.3 Sources and types of upgrading .............. 318
   6.4.4 Emergent codes identified from interview transcripts 324
   6.4.5 Inferences from individual case analysis of firm S 347

6.5 Cross Case Analysis of Strand I ................................ 358
   6.5.1 Data array of Firm (Endogenous) Rents ................ 358
      6.5.1.1 Technology rents .................................. 358
      6.5.1.2 Human resource based rents ..................... 361
      6.5.1.3 Organization of work as source of rent ....... 364
      6.5.1.4 Marketing rents .................................. 368
      6.5.1.5 R&D rents ...................................... 371
   6.5.2 Data array of Resource based rents .................. 376
   6.5.3 Data array of Relational or chain rents ............. 378
   6.5.4 Data array of Exogenous rents ......................... 385
      6.5.4.1 Policy Rents .................................... 385
      6.5.4.2 Infrastructure Rents ............................. 387

6.6 Data Array of sources of governance .......................... 390
   6.6.1 Legislative governance within and between firms ...... 390
   6.6.2 Executive governance within and between firms ........ 398
6.6.3 Judicial governance within and between firms
6.6.4 Trust based implementation of governance

6.7 Data Array of Types of Upgrading
6.7.1 Process upgrading within and between firms
   6.7.1.1 Within Links
   6.7.1.2 Infrastructure Rents
6.7.2 Product upgrading within and between firms
   6.7.2.1 With Links
   6.7.2.2 Infrastructure Rents
6.7.3 Functional upgrading within and between firms
6.7.4 Evidence of value -chain upgrading

6.8 Analyses of the critical success factors specified by firms
6.8.1 Data Array of order winning characteristics
6.8.2 Data Array of order qualifying characteristics
6.8.3 Development of radar charts for CSF assessment
   6.8.3.1 Radar charts of Firm H
   6.8.3.2 Radar charts of Firm M
   6.8.3.3 Radar charts of Firm S

6.9 Analyses of the buying functions
6.9.1 Analysis of the key segments or key buyers
6.9.2 Analyses of the key product categories
6.9.3 Analysis of the destination of sales of case study firms

Chapter 7
ANALYSIS OF STRAND II:
DESCRIPTIVE ATTITUDINAL SURVEY

7.1 Survey firms classified by annual turnover
7.2 Comparisons of Product Categories Manufactured by Survey Firms
   7.2.1 Degree of Importance of Product Categories
7.3 Comparisons of factors enabling export development in the initial and present state
   7.3.1 Factors Increasing In Importance:
   7.3.2 Factors Decreasing In Importance
   7.3.3 Statistical tests to increase reliability of findings:
      7.3.3.1 Use of t test to examine difference in mean scores of initial success to
   7.3.4 Examination of Present Factors Contributing To Firm Success
      7.3.4.1 Use of t test to examine difference in mean scores of present factors
      7.3.4.2 Use of the t test to examine mean scores of success factors for turnover related groupings
7.3.4.3 Examining mean scores of present success factors for firms grouped on basis of activities undertaken:--------466
7.3.4.4 Present Key Success Factors (Pooled Factors)--------468
7.3.5 Non Parametric Tests Used To test Results ---------------469
  7.3.5.1 Sign Test for Matched Pairs--------------------------469
  7.3.5.2 Wilcoxon Signed Ranks Test for Matched Pairs--------471
  7.3.5.3 Freidman’s Two Way ANOVA :--------------------------472
7.4 Analysis of Upgrading -------------------------------------474
  7.4.1 Sources of Upgrading-----------------------------------474
  7.4.2 Upgrading: Predominantly Affirmative Factors-------------475
  7.4.3 Areas of Upgrading: Factors Pooled Across Categories -----479
  7.4.3.1 Upgrading: Process Efficiency Improvements (Pooled Factors)--------------------------481
7.5 Analysis of aspects of Governance --------------------------482
  7.5.1 Predominant Aspects of Legislative Governance-----------482
  7.5.2 Aspects of legislative governance not common in survey firms ------------------------------483
  7.5.3 Use of statistical tests to examine legislative governance ratings ...................484
  7.5.4 Judicial Governance Affirmative Factors----------------485
7.6 Sources of Fabric Production (Yarn to Fabric Conversion)---487
7.7 Major Countries of Export----------------------------------488
7.8 Major buyer segments important to firms
  (Rank 1 tabulated)------------------------------------------490
7.9 Nature of Value Chain (Typology of the Chain)--------------492

Chapter - 8
META – INFERENCES AND DISCUSSION OF PROPOSITIONS
..............................................................................................495 - 521

8.1 Discussion of the Propositions through Integration of the Evidence -----------------------------------------------496
  8.1.1 Firm, Relational and Resource Based Rents Are Significant To Manufacturing Export Firms ---------496
  8.1.2 Legislative governance is more significant to firms than judicial or executive governance.---------501
  8.1.3 Quasi hierarchical chains are the dominant typology of chain seen among home textile manufacturing export firms in Kannur.--------------------------509
  8.1.4 Product and Process Upgrading Is Seen In Manufacturing Export Firms.--------------------------514
  8.1.5. KSFs Have Moved From Product Based To Process Based Factors -----------------------------------------------517
Chapter - 9

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS ...........................................523 - 534

9.1 Findings from Individual Case Analysis: ..........................524
9.2 Findings from Cross Case Analysis and Radar Charts: -----527
9.3 Recommendations: .........................................................529
9.4 Conclusion.................................................................533
9.5 Scope for further Research: ...........................................534

REFERENCES ...............................................................................535 - 562
