CONTENTS

CHAPTER I  INTRODUCTION
  i) Location, extent and communication
  ii) Physiography, drainage, etc.
  iii) Scope of work and statement of problem
  iv) Brief history of the copper deposits
  v) Ancient mining
  vi) Prospecting, mining and reserves
  vii) Sampling and preparation of samples viii) Acknowledgements

CHAPTER II  PREVIOUS WORK AND GEOLOGY
  i) Brief review of earlier investigations
  ii) Stratigraphic position
  iii) Structural setup
  iv) Metamorphism
    a) Occurrence
    b) Mineralogy and composition
    c) Form and shape
  v) Ore deposits
    a) Occurrence
    b) Mineralogy and composition
    c) Form and shape
  iv) Control of ores
    a) Lithological
    b) Stratigraphical
    c) Structural

CHAPTER III  LABORATORY METHODS OF STUDY
  i) Systematic analyses of rock samples for major elements by conventional chemical methods
  ii) Separation of minerals from rock samples
  iii) Trace element analyses by Atomic Absorption Spectrophotometer

CHAPTER IV  OCCURRENCE, LITHOLOGY, PETROMINERALOGY AND PETROCHEMISTRY OF ROCKS
  i) Occurrence and lithology
    1. Intrusives
      a) Granites and granitic rocks
      b) Pegmatites and quartz veins
      c) Basic dykes

- i -
2. Metamorphics
   a) Quartzites ... 49
   b) Schists and phyllites 50
   c) Carbonate rocks ... 52
ii) Petromineralogy ... 53
iii) Petrochemistry ... 68

CHAPTER V GEOCHEMISTRY AND DISTRIBUTION OF TRACE ELEMENTS IN ROCKS, MINERALS AND SOILS 72
   i) General statement ... 72
   ii) Interpretation of results 88

CHAPTER VI GEOCHEMICAL DISPERSION OF TRACE ELEMENTS 109
   i) Geochemical variation diagrams for primary and secondary dispersion aureoles 109
   ii) Comparative study of primary and secondary dispersion patterns of Cu, Pb and Zn 125
   iii) Trace element isoconcentration maps 130

CHAPTER VII SIGNIFICANCE OF TRACE ELEMENTS 137
   i) Concentration trend of some trace elements 137
   ii) Geochemistry as applied to the Khetri copper ores ... 141

CHAPTER VIII SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS ... 146
