The Plates
Key to Plates

Plate I

No. 1. Tribal huts.
No. 2. A scene from Baha festival: worship of Naeke.

Plate II

No. 1. A scene from Baha festival: offering Sal flower to village maiden.
No. 2. A scene from Baha festival: offering Handia.

Plate III

No. 1. A scene from the Baha festival: showing respect to Naeke.
No. 2. Karma festival: anointing a Karam plant with vermilion.

Plate IV

No. 1. Karma festival: plantation of the Karam tree.
No. 2. Karma festival: arrangement for worship.

Plate V

No. 1. Karma festival: binding the Karam plant with white thread.
No. 2. Karma festival: the concluding ritual.

Plate VI

No. 1. Tribals marriage under the shade of a Maroa.
No. 2. Married couple
Plate VII

No. 1. Tribal village Panchyat.
No. 2. Tribal entertainment: dance of the men folk.

Plate VIII

No. 1. Tribal entertainment: dance of the women folk on the occasion of marriage ceremony.
No. 2. Tribal entertainment: dance of the women folk on the occasion of the Baha festival.
No. 3. Tribal's sports and pastimes: cock-fighting.

Plate IX

No. 1. An overview of Maithon Dam of the D.V.C.
No. 2. Water-gate of the Maithon Dam – releasing water.

Plate X

No. 1. Tribals working on the site of the D.V.C. project.
No. 2. Tribals working on another site of the D.V.C. project.
No. 3. Tribal men and women adopting Poultry-rearing as their occupation.

Plate XI

No. 1. Brick-structure of the changing tribal habitat.
No. 2. Decorations on the walls of the tribal houses: animal motifs including that of Dinosaur.
Plate XII

No. 1. D.V.C. Quarters owned by a tribal employee.

No. 2. Changing pattern of living habits of the tribals: well-dressed tribal girl in a well-furnished room.

Plate XIII

No. 1. Modernisation of the dress-style of the tribal people.

No. 2. Educated tribal youngman.

Plate XIV

No. 2. A tribal executive officer.
PLATE III