Acknowledgements

First of all, I would like to express my deepest sense of gratitude to my guide Professor Dilip Roy, Head, Department of Business Administration, The University of Burdwan, for giving the opportunity of developing my Ph.D. thesis under his supervision. I am grateful for his scholarly guidance, inspiring and valuable suggestions, tirelessly monitoring of the work and for his timely corrections with positive criticism, without which this study would not have been completed or even started. I thank him for believing in me, sometimes more than what I believe myself.

I am thankful to the authorities of The University of Burdwan for giving me permission to do this research work.

I express my gratitude to all the members of the Centre for Management Studies for creating a pleasant place to work and for providing me with all the resources necessary to carry out this work with important suggestion.

I would like to thank to all my teachers, colleagues, co-researcher and friends for their help and cooperation and a special thank goes to my friend Sumit for his continuous support and inspiration.

Finally, I would like to thank my family members, specially my mother Suchitra and my father Janmejoy Khan for being my silent source of strength. They always supported me and motivated and encouraged me to continue towards the completion of this thesis. This achievement is theirs.
