ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My heartfelt thanks are due to the University Grants Commission, New Delhi, for the award of a long-term Teacher Research Fellowship, the Commissioner of Collegiate Education, Government of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad, for deputing me to S.K. University for pursuing research, my supervisor Professor A. Ramakrishna Rao, Department of English and Comparative Literature, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Anantapur, for his scholarly advice and criticism and humane understanding of my aspiration.

Dr. C.R. Visweswara Rao and Dr. V.V.N. Rajendra Prasad, Readers in English, Department of English and Comparative Literature, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Anantapur, for reading through the final draft of my thesis and for offering their valuable suggestions, Dr. M. Kumaraswamy Raju, Head of the Department of English and Comparative Literature, and the members of the Faculty of English for their kind co-operation and encouragement, the American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad, and the University of Hyderabad for enabling me to consult the resources of their libraries, all the critics of Robert Penn Warren for the insights they have offered, the Late Dr. B. Nagabhushanam, Former Reader in Rural Development and NSS Programme Co-ordinator, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Anantapur, for inspiring me to work for my Ph.D. and for introducing me to a scholar and man of the stature of Professor A. Ramakrishna Rao, my Research Supervisor.

N. SURYA KUMARI.