At the very outset, I would like to express my sincere thanks and deep gratitude to the author's whose valuable works are quoted at various appropriate places in the body of the present work. They have inspired me much to undertake the present line of research.

This work has been completed under the supervision of my teacher Dr. N.N. Bhattacharyya, Professor of Geography, Gauhati University. I am highly indebted to him for his precious suggestions, guidance and co-operation.

I am very much grateful to a number of village leaders, Secretaries and Presidents of Gaon Panchayats, School teachers, employees of Mahkuma Parisad, Town Committee, Municipal Boards etc. who extended full co-operation during the courses of my primary data collection through personal interviews. Besides, I also take the opportunity to extend my thanks to various Government and non-Government agencies and Offices of Dhubri District where from I could collect the Secondary data and some of these are Directorate of Census, Directorate of Economics and Statistics, Offices of the Land Revenue, Offices of the Gaon Panchayats and Block Development of various localities, Office of the Inspector of Schools, Post Offices, various Banks, Police Stations, Civil Hospitals etc.

I acknowledge thanks to a large number of friends and people for their kind help in my strenuous field-work for data collection.

I must acknowledge my thanks to my Mrs. Hosneara Rahman, who had to take a lot of pain in my domestic front during my absence, literary works and other activities related to the present work with boundless inspirations.

I also must acknowledge my thanks to my son Suhel Rahman, who helped me a lot in some typing works and other activities related to my works.

Finally, Mr. Kalicharan Das, deserves thanks for typing out my thesis carefully.
