CHAPTER-I

Introduction 1

1.1 Factors that influence in cognitive development: 3

1.2 History of cognitive Psychology: 4

1.3 Cognition in Renaissance and Beyond: 6

1.4 Cognitive Psychology: The Early Twentieth Century: 6

1.5 Theoretical Background of the cognitive development: 7

1.6 Cognitive Approaches_ Piaget: 7

1.7 Bruner’s Theory of conceptual process: 10

1.8 Cognitive – Approach-Information Processing: 10

1.9 Recent Theoretical Approach to the study of cognitive development: 11

1.10 Vygotsky: The social Context of cognitive development: 12

1.11 The term competence 12

1.12 The term ‘Institutionalisation’: 17

1.13 Developmental significance of institutionalisation: 18

1.14 Statement of the problem: 18

1.15 Objectives of the study: 19
1.16 Hypotheses: 20

1.17 Limitations of the Study: 20

CHAPTER-II

Review of Literature 21

CHAPTER-III

Research Methodology 47

3.1 Introduction: 47

3.2 Need of the study: 48

3.3 Pilot Study: 48

3.4 Variable under study: 49

3.5 Sample: 49

3.6 Research Design: 51

3.7 Tools for data collection: 52

3.8 General description of the Pass Along Test: 52

3.9 Material: 53

3.10 Starting position: 53

3.11 Test administration (Pass Along Test): 53

3.12 General description of the Embedded Figure Test: 54

3.13 Test administration (Embedded Figure Test): 55

3.14 Perceptual-Field dependence and Field independence: 55

3.15 Timing: 56
3.16 Interview Schedule: 56
3.17 Procedure of data collection 57

CHAPTER-IV

Results, Analysis and Discussions 58
Analysis of Pass Along Test Score: 60
Analysis of Embedded Figure Test Score: 91
Analysis of Self-Structured Interview Schedule: 126

CHAPTER-V

Resume 156
References: 163

Appendices: