ACKNOWLEDGMENT

This research work inevitably involves many helping hands. First of all praise and thank God Almighty for guiding me on the right path and providing me wisdom and courage to complete this work in time.

I am immeasurably obliged to my respected and dignified supervising guide Dr. P.S. Mohanakumar, Reader and Head, Post Graduate Department and Research Centre in Economics, Sree Sankara College, Kalady for guidance, advice, suggestions and encouragement. I express my sincere and heartfelt gratitude to him.

I am equally grateful to Dr. K. Pushpangadhan, Fellow, Centre for Development Studies, Thiruvananthapuram without whose generous co-operation and valuable suggestions this thesis would not have been brought out.

It is my duty to express my gratitude to Dr. K. P. Mani, Professor, Department of Economics, University of Calicut, Dr. John Mathai Centre, Aranattukara, Thrissur for the valuable suggestions.

I owe much to Sri. Sambhu Nampoothiri, Department of Economics, Sree Sankara College, Kalady for his advice, suggestions and active co-operation in my work.

My sincere thanks to Dr. M K Ramachandran, Sel. Grade Lecturer, Smt. V. Girija, Sel. Grade Lecturer, Dr. S Sreeja, Sel. Grade Lecturer, Sri. S Prasad, Lecturer, Sri. Joby Jose, Lecturer and Smt.
