ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The influence of the nineteenth century English poetry on Assamese poetry during the later part of the nineteenth century and the early part of the twentieth century is an established fact. This work is an investigation into the nature and extent of this influence. The completion of this study has been possible for the help and encouragement of a number of persons to whom I feel myself in debt. I must begin with the acknowledgement of my sincerest gratitude to my guide Dr. Gobinda Prasad Sarma. I feel greatly obliged by his consent to supervise my work in spite of his hectic schedule. It has really been a strenuous work for Dr. Sarma to steer me through the work. It would have been extremely difficult for me to complete my thesis without his patient and sympathetic guidance throughout the course of my research.

I also owe my thankfulness to Dr. Anjali Sarma, Lecturer in Assamese, Handique Girls' College, who has instilled confidence in me all through the period of this study.

My deepest gratitude is due to Late Dr. Hemanta Kumar Sarma, Head of the Assamese Department, Cotton College, who helped me not only with his advice and encouragement but also with rare books from his own collection. I have felt his loss all along.
I am also thankful to my colleagues, Dr. Mina Bora and Mrs. Indira Barthakur for their constant concern with the progress of my thesis.

I should like to record my thanks to Dr. Birendra Kumar Bhattacharyya, ex-President of Sahitya Akademi, Bhaben Barua, Reader, Department of English, Gauhati University, Dr. Nabin Sarma, Reader, Department of Folklore, Gauhati University, Dr. Bhruigu Mohan Goswami, Lecturer, North Guwahati College, Kshitish Misra, Girish Misra, Advocate, Guwahati High Court, Mrs. Pulakita Das, Girindra Nath Deka and Khagen Kalita for their help and encouragement.

I shall also happily remember the interest shown by my children and few of their friends in the progress of my work.

Such a list of my gratefulness to various persons would not be complete without the mention of how much I owe to Professor Praphulladatta Goswami, the doyen of the Folklore study of the North-East Region and the former Professor and Head of the Folklore Department and present Professor Emeritus of Gauhati University. It is he who gave the idea of research on such a subject first, and then with his constant inspiration has stood as a beacon for my work amidst my busy domestic schedule.

Geeta Misra Goswami
Geeta Misra Goswami