VI. REFERENCES

exogenous emulcifiers and fat sources on nutrient digestibility, serum lipids, and growth performance in weaning pigs. J. Anim. Sci. 70: 3473-3482.

requirements of laying hens for optimum performance and egg shell

on the utilization of fatty acids in broiler diets. Arch. Geflügelkd, 51: 127.

Ketels, E., G. Huyghebaert and DeGroote, 1986. The nutritional value of commercial fat blends in broiler diets. 2. effect of incorporation level on the fatty acid utilization. Arch. Geflügelkd, 51: 59.

protease activities in pancreatic tissue and intestinal contents of young

Kumar, P.V., R. Ravi, M. Purushothaman and B. Mohan. 2007. Performance of broilers fed graded levels of mango (Mangifera indica) seed kernel

University Books, Canada, NIH6N8, Publications.

International Book Distributing Co., Lucknow.

Lessire, M., B. Leclercq and L. Conana, 1982. Metabolizable energy value of Roche company, 1969, Roche yolk colour Fan no. 1155 printed in Switzerland, DF, Bornstein and Bartov, 1966.

Scheideler, S.E., D. Aroni and U. Puthpong siriporn. 1998. Strain, fiber source, and enzyme supplementation effects on pullet growth, nutrient

