ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the outset, I must acknowledge my deep sense of gratitude to my revered teacher Professor Girish Sarma, Head of the Department of Philosophy, Gauhati University, for his wise and ever inspiring guidance.

I feel pleasure to have the opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to Prof. Sibnath Sarma, Dr. M. Barua, Dr. S.P. Goswami, and Dr. B. B. Banu, all from the Deptt. of Philosophy, Gauhati University. I must remember Prof. D. K. Chakravarty and Dr. Nilima Sarma for their advice and courage.

I also like to offer cordial thanks to Dr. R. N. Ghose, Proff. And Head of the Department of Philosophy, North Bengal University for his help.

I am grateful to the library staff of ICPR library, Luknow; K. K. Handique library, G. U.; National Library, Calcutta; Library of the Deptt. of Philosophy and Comparative Religion, Viswabharati University, Santiniketan; and those of Bajali College library, Pathsala.
I must also acknowledge my gratitude to Late D. N. Bhattacharya, my teacher who in fact brought me to this wonderful world of philosophy and had been inspiring till his departure.

I am also indebted to Dr. Pranita Devi, head of the dept of Philosophy, Bajali college, and all my departmental colleagues for inspiring and co-operating to complete the work.

Mrs. Karabi Sarma, my wife and a student of philosophy, certainly deserves a place here, as she facilitated me by creating the environment of study everywhere, at home or in library.

At the end I offer my cordial thanks to Saroj and Goutam for their hard labour in preparing the thesis in typed form.
