ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present work was undertaken and completed under the supervision and guidance of Dr. Bharati Barua, Former Professor and Head of the Department of History, Gauhati University. My heartiest gratitude and thanks to Dr. Barua. I will remain thankful to her always.

I am thankful to the authorities of K.K. Handique Library, Gauhati University, the library of Indian Council of Historical Research, Guwahati, the Department of Historical & Antiquarian Studies, Assam, Kamarupa Anusandhan Samiti, Guwahati, Assam State Museum, Directorate of Archaeology, Assam, besides the National Library, Calcutta, the library of North-Eastern Hill University for their co-operation and help.

While carrying out the works on this research project I have consulted books of different authors of repute for data and materials and to them I express my gratitude by enlisting their names in the Bibliography. Here it is worth mentioning that in case of some books referred to I could not provide the dates of the edition and in some other cases the names of the publishers too.

Further the authentic materials collected from different sources as inscriptions, archaeological remains to substantiate my findings are referred to by quoting names of the authors and even pages of the books in the foot notes shown at the bottom of the pages of this dissertation whenever such help has been utilised.

I remain always grateful and indebted to my consort Mr. Utpal Dutta for his constant help and encouragement, to my well-wishers and the members of my family. My heartiest thanks to Mr. H. Rashid, retired English teacher of Nalbari College for his valuable suggestion and help from time to time and to Sri Khanindra Kalita, the proprietor of Chandana Computer Graphics, Nalbari.

Last but not the least, I am greatly indebted to Indian Council of Historical Research for awarding me Junior Research Fellowship for this research work.
