Acknowledgements

I am indebted to numerous people for their guidance and cooperation towards the completion of the present work on Neo-Liberal State and Human Security: A Study of Right to Health care in Guwahati City.

My Supervisor Professor Anuradha Dutta constantly monitored my work, put on raising various questions that I was about to overlook and reminded me the timeframe of my research work. She ensured maximum freedom for me so that I can articulate and present the problem at me own, without, however, allowing me to loose the track of the work. I acknowledge my sincere gratitude to Professor Dutta.

I owe a great debt to Professor Manoranjan Mohanty of Delhi University—my supervisor for M. Phil Dissertation, for his keen interest and kind help towards the completion of my work. It was Professor Mohanty who suggested me to work on this present problem and helped in almost every stage in formulating and articulating the problem. My association with Professor Mohanty helped me in numerous ways in understanding contemporary capitalism with its growing complexities. I am priviledged to acknowledge my gratitude to Professor Mohanty.

I was equally fortunate to have Professor Niru Hazarika as the Head, Department of Political Science, GU during my research period. Madam Hazarika relieved me from my Departmental engagement at many instances and made all possible facilities in the Department available to me with a sincere hope that the quality of my work will add strength to the Department. I feel very glad to acknowledge my sincere gratitude to Professor Hazarika.

My colleagues in the Department of Political Science- Professor Kunja Medhi, Professor Monirul Hussain, Dr. Sandhya Goswami, Dr. Alaka Sarmah, Dr. Dhruba Pratim Sarma, Nani Gopal Mahanta and Shubraject Konwer- took keen interest in my work and cooperated in numerous ways. I am grateful to all of them. Dr. Kandarpa Das, colleague in the Department of Foreign Languages, Gauhati University took the pain to go through the early draft of a few chapters and helped me to rearticulate some of the problems that I raised. I express my gratefulness to him.
I owe debt to many other people who helped me in carrying out this work. I am privileged to acknowledge my gratefulness to Professor Hiren Gohain, leading intellectual and the symbol of intellectual integrity; Professor ANS Ahmed and Professor Indranee Dutta from OKD Institute of Social Change and Development; Professor Girin Phokan and Professor Dhiren Bhagawati from the Department of Political Science, Dibrugarh University; Siddheswar Das, Paresh Malakar, Dudulmoni Sarmah, Gajen Kalita, Ashim Boruah and other members of Anwesha for their inspiration, guidance and help in numerous ways.

My students in the Department have been a source of inspiration for me throughout my work. My engagement with them in Political Theory classes exposed me to more areas of concern in a discourse on globalization, neo-liberal state and human security. I am grateful to all of my students.

Diganta Das (Office Assistant) and Sandhya Gurung (Peon) in the Department helped me in all possible way while working on my thesis. I express my sincere gratitude to them.

My personal interest in the field of health right/security grew through my engagement with my mother’s health. My mother, who passed through a terrible state of health for more that one and half decades and ultimately died out of anemia and hyper thyroid in the month of March 2005, exposed me to the terrible state of affairs in the health sector in the state of Assam in general and in Guwahati City in particular. Both anemia and hyperthyroid is treatable disease. But, the mechanistic attitude and too much dependence on technology resulting in a fragmented approach to health care ultimately took away my mother. This is, however, not an isolated incident. This is the general state of health care affairs in the state and in Guwahati City. I pay my tribute to the departed soul who knew about my work but could not see its completion.

University Grants Commission (UGC) sponsored a Minor Research Project (MRP) on my Ph. D. topic that helped me financially to complete this work. I acknowledge my sincere gratitude to UGC.

I am also indebted to UNICEF, Kolkata; Public Health Engineering Department, Government of Assam and STUP Consultants, Kolkata, who co-opted me as a social/gender & organizational expert in the Study Team for the Rapid Assessment of Rural Water Supply and Sanitation in Assam. I am particularly grateful to Radhika Choudhury (Team Leader); D. C. Dutta; Lino and Tarali- members of the Study Team. who collectively made the work enjoying and a point of great learning. The study helped me in understanding the public health dimension of health security in Assam.

I am grateful to the librarians and other staff of KK Handique Library, Gauhati University; ICHR Regional Centre Library, Gauhati University; OKD Institute Library, Guwahati; Assam Legislative Assembly Library; Delhi University Library; JNU Library and Jawaharlal Nehru Memorial Museum & Library, Teen Murti, New Delhi for their cooperation towards the completion of the work.

My work would have remained incomplete if I would not have received cooperation from the Directorate of Health, Government of Assam and the private nursing homes in Guwahati City. The Directorate of Health is extremely poor in statistics and information. Despite this, the Directorate provided me some crucial information. Almost all-private nursing homes that I visited responded positively to my request for information. I record my sincere gratitude to all of them. Dr. D. P. Goswami, owner of East End Nursing Home and also the President of All Assam Non-Government Health Establishment Association and Dr. II. S. Borthakur of Borthakur Clinic Private Limited talked to me for hours and provided an insider's views on the state of health security in Guwahati city. I am grateful to both of them.

Sudden demise of my mother brought un-repairable sorrow to all my family members. However, my father, younger brother and sisters relieved me from the world of sadness by reminding me the timeframe of the research work. I find no word to express my gratitude to them.

My wife Mouchumee Dutta Borah (Tutumoni), although, is not trained up in social sciences, but, I was always put into new challenges through unexpected questions that she raised related to my research work. I will fail in my duty if I do not record my gratefulness to her.

Although, I was profoundly benefited by so many people, however, all limitation of the work is entirely my own.

Despite being extremely careful in preparing the footnotes there remained a little disorder as a few footnotes of a few pages appears in the immediate next pages.
