AKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is my privilege that I am a Muslim and I should remain ever grateful to ‘ALMIGHTY ALLAH’ the most merciful and compassionate, who bestows me the courage and health to accomplish my research work.

I am highly grateful to my dynamic and generous research supervisor Dr. Md. Ilyas Khan, Associate professor, Department of Psychology, A.M.U. Aligarh, who has been source of constant encouragement right from the selection of my topic to the completion of this research programme. It is due his inexhaustible experience, amicable guidance, benevolent nature, generousness and his valued suggestions that I am able to complete my work in time.

I express my gratitude to Prof. Akbar Husain, Department of Psychology, A.M.U. Aligarh, for his suggestion, valuable guidance and keen interest during the whole course of my research study.

I extend my sincere gratitude to Prof. Shahina Maqbool, Chairperson of the Department of Psychology, A.M.U. Aligarh, for her kind nature, noble ideas, and the sophisticated research facilities that help me to accomplish this task effortlessly and without any inconvenience.

It wants to express my special and heartiest thanks to my parents, Gh. Nabi Malik and Zareefa Begum and other family members, like my elder brother Malik Khursheed, my younger brother Malik Shafkat, and my Sisters for their blessing and support. Especially my parents who took various pains and agony during the whole course of my study, which kept me at easetocarry out my work successfully. It was due to their devotional efforts and sound financial help and constant encouragement that make emotionally strong and keep me on the track.

Kids are known as the flowers of paradise, it will be highly regretted if I miss to express my love and affection with my nephews: Asrar, Shahid and niece: Irtiza Ayoub. Their love makes me strong emotionally and mentally as well.

At last I would like to express my sincere thanks to all the teachers, research scholars and non-teaching faculty of the Department of Psychology who directly and indirectly helped me in carrying out my research work.
