CHAPTER I
INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background and Significance of the Problem
1.2 Research Objectives
1.3 Problems of Research
1.4 Scope of the Study
1.5 Conceptual Framework of Research
1.6 Data for the Study
1.7 Definition of Terms
1.8 Review of Literature
1.9 Method of Research
1.10 Expected Benefits
CHAPTER II
CONCEPT OF CONFLICT AND REMEDY IN PHILOSOPHY

2.1 Introduction ................................................................. 24
2.2 Concept of Conflict and Remedy ........................................ 25
   2.2.1 Definitions of Conflict ............................................. 25
   2.2.2 Development of Conflict Knowledge ......................... 29
   2.2.3 Roots of Conflict .................................................. 32
   2.2.4 Conflict Prevention, Management and Resolution ............ 37
2.3 Concept of Conflict and Remedy in Western Philosophy ......... 40
   2.3.1 Karl Marx’s View (Marxism) ..................................... 40
   2.3.2 Lewis A. Coser’s View ............................................ 47
   2.3.3 Ralf Dahrendorf’s View (Parsonian Conflict Theory) ...... 50
2.4 Concept of Conflict and Remedy in Eastern Philosophy ......... 53
   2.4.1 Cārvāka’s View ..................................................... 53
   2.4.2 Six Orthodox Schools’ View ..................................... 55
   2.4.3 Gandhi’s View ..................................................... 61
2.5 Concept of Conflict and Remedy in Religious Philosophy ...... 70
   2.5.1 Jainism’s View ..................................................... 70
   2.5.2 Christianity’s View ............................................... 74
   2.5.3 Islam’s View ..................................................... 83
2.6 Conclusion ..................................................................... 88

CHAPTER III
CONCEPT OF CONFLICT IN BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY

3.1 Introduction .................................................................. 90
3.2 Meanings of Conflict in Buddhist Philosophy.........................91
3.3 Kinds of Conflict in Buddhist Philosophy.............................98
  3.3.1 Bodily Conflict..................................................98
  3.3.2 Verbal Conflict..................................................101
  3.3.3 Mental Conflict..................................................104
3.4 Roots of Conflict in Buddhist Philosophy.............................107
  3.4.1 Akusala-mūla: Unwholesome Roots or Roots of Bad Actions..........................107
  3.4.2 Papañca: Diversification, Diffuseness or Mental Diffusion..........................113
3.5 Conflict Stories in Buddhist Literatures.............................121
  3.5.1 Conflict Story of Power, Authority and Benefits:
        A Case Study of the Story of Devadatta Bhikkhu..........121
  3.5.2 Conflict Story of the Different Beliefs:
        A Case Study of the Story of Sirigutta and Garahadinnna........................124
  3.5.3 Conflict Story of the Different View:
        A Case Study of the Monks of Kosambī .........................128
  3.5.4 Conflict Story of Different Moral Conducts:
        A Case Study of the First and Second Rehearsal or Council........................133
  3.5.5 Conflict Story of the Malice and Revenge:
        A Case Study of the Female Yakkha (Kāli Yakkhinī)…..139
  3.5.6 Conflict Story of the Scant Resource:
        A Case Study of the Conflict between People of Sākya State and Koliya State..........................141
  3.5.7 Conflict Story between Different Races:
        A Case Study of the Conflict between the Sākya Dynasty and Prince Viñūḍabha.............144
3.6 Effects of Conflict ................................................................. 148
   3.6.1 The Pessimistic Effects ............................................... 148
   3.6.2 The Positive Effects .................................................. 151
3.7 Conclusion ........................................................................... 156

CHAPTER IV
CONFLICT AND REMEDY IN BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY:
  KUSALA – KAMMAPATHA
(WHOLESOME COURSE OF ACTION)

4.1 Introduction ................................................................. 158
4.2 Meaning and Importance of Kusala-kammapatha ............... 159
   4.2.1 Meaning of Kusala-kammapatha ................................. 159
   4.2.2 Importance of Kusala-kammapatha on Conflict Remedy .... 162
4.3 Relationship between the Concept of Kamma and Kusala-kammapatha ................................................................. 164
4.4 Conflict and Remedy in Deeds on the Concept of Kusala-kammapatha ................................................................. 171
   4.4.1 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from Killing ........... 171
   4.4.2 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from Taking what is not Given ................................................................. 175
   4.4.3 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from Sexual Misconduct ................................................................. 178
4.5 Conflict and Remedy in Words on the Concept of Kusala-kammapatha ................................................................. 182
4.5.1 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from False Speech.................................182

4.5.2 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from Tale-bearing…186

4.5.3 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from Harsh Speech.................................188

4.5.4 Conflict and Remedy by Abstention from Vain Talk or Gossip..........................191

4.6 Conflict and Remedy in Thoughts on the Concept of Kusala-kammapatha....................195

4.6.1 Conflict and Remedy by Non-covetousness.................................195

4.6.2 Conflict and Remedy by Non-illwill or Non-hatred..........................198

4.6.3 Conflict and Remedy by Right View........................................202

4.7 Results of Conflict Remedy in Kusala-kammapatha..........................205

4.7.1 Unwholesome Roots can be Decreased or Eradicated......206

4.7.2 There are Training and Developing Oneself.........................208

4.7.3 Benefits to Oneself and Others........................................209

4.7.4 Go to the Good Ways both in This World and Next World............................211

4.8 Conclusion..........................................................................213

CHAPTER V

CONFLICT AND REMEDY IN BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY: Majjhimā paṭipadā (MIDDLE PATH)

5.1 Introduction........................................................................215

5.2 Meaning and Importance of Majjhimā paṭipadā......................217

5.2.1 Meaning of Majjhimā paṭipadā........................................217

5.2.2 Importance of Majjhimā paṭipadā on Conflict Remedy…219
5.3 Relationship between Majjhimā paṭipadā and Tisikkhā (The Threefold Training) ............................................................... 221
5.3.1 Morality (Sīla) .......................................................... 224
5.3.2 Concentration (Samādhi) .............................................. 225
5.3.3 Wisdom (Paññā) .......................................................... 227
5.4 Conflict and Remedy in Wisdom (Paññā) on the Concept of Majjhimā paṭipadā .......................................................... 231
5.4.1 Conflict and Remedy by Right View (Sammādiṭṭhi) ..... 231
5.4.2 Conflict and Remedy by Right Thought
(Sammāsaṅkappa) .......................................................... 236
5.5 Conflict and Remedy in Morality (Sīla) on the Concept of Majjhimā paṭipadā .......................................................... 240
5.5.1 Conflict and Remedy by Right Speech (Sammāvācā) ... 240
5.5.2 Conflict and Remedy by Right Action
(Sammākammanta) .......................................................... 244
5.5.3 Conflict and Remedy by Right Livelihood
(Sammā-ājīva) .......................................................... 246
5.6 Conflict and Remedy in Concentration (Samādhi) on the Concept of Majjhimā paṭipadā .......................................................... 253
5.6.1 Conflict and Remedy by Right Effort (Sammāvāyāma) ... 253
5.6.2 Conflict and Remedy by Right Mindfulness
(Sammāsati) .......................................................... 258
5.6.3 Conflict and Remedy by Right Concentration
(Sammāsamādhi) .......................................................... 262
5.7 Results of Conflict Remedy in Majjhimā paṭipadā ............... 267
5.7.1 Development and Training of Oneself Rightly and
Consciously .......................................................... 267
5.7.2 Unwholesome Roots and Defilements are
Eliminated and Destroyed ............................................. 268
5.7.3 Approach to the Cessation of Kamma…………………………269
5.7.4 Attainment of the Benefits and the Goals Rightly………270
5.8 Conclusion.................................................................272

CHAPTER VI
SYNTHESIS AND CREATION: THE THEORY OF CONFLICT
AND REMEDY IN BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY

6.1 Introduction...............................................................274
6.2 Synthesis of the Concept of Conflict in Buddhist Philosophy….275
   6.2.1 Concept of the Roots of Conflict in
       Buddhist Philosophy..............................................275
   6.2.2 Concept of the Kinds of Conflict in
       Buddhist Philosophy.............................................280
   6.2.3 Concept of Conflict in Buddhist Philosophy………………282
6.3 Synthesis of the Concept of Kusala-kammapatha on
       Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy.......................285
   6.3.1 Concept of Kinds of Kusala-kammapatha that can
       Eradicate the Unwholesome Roots............................286
   6.3.2 Concept of Kinds of Kusala-kammapatha that can
       Cultivate the Wholesome Roots...............................288
   6.3.3 Concept of Kusala-kammapatha on
       Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy.......................291
6.4 Synthesis of the Concept of Majjhimā paṭipadā on
       Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy.......................294
   6.4.1 Concept of Majjhimā paṭipadā to Eradicate the Unwholesome Roots and to Cultivate the Wholesome Roots............................................294
6.4.2 Concept of Application of Majjhima patipadā to Meaning of Conflict Remedy under the Threefold Training……………………………………297

6.4.3 Concept of Majjhima patipadā on Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy………………299

6.5 Theory of Conflict and Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy………301

6.5.1 Relationship between the Concept of Kusala-kammapatha and the Concept of Majjhima patipadā on Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy……………………………………302

6.5.2 One-pointedness of the Concept of Kusala-kammapatha and the Concept of Majjhima patipadā on Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy……………………………………304

6.5.3 The Processes of Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy……………………………………308

6.5.4 Concept of Conflict and Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy with Special Reference to Theravāda……………………………………315

6.6 Conclusion…………………………………………………………318

CHAPTER VII

SUMMARY AND SUGGESTIONS

7.1 Results of Research………………………………………………319

7.1.1 Results of Study of the Concept of Conflict in Buddhist Philosophy……………………………………319
7.1.2 Results of Study of the Concept of Conflict and Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy…………………………322

7.1.3 Results of Synthesis as the Right Concept of Conflict Remedy in Buddhist Philosophy and Their Application to the Present Day…………………………327

7.2 Suggestions………………………………………………………………………………329

7.2.1 Suggestions for Application…………………………………………………329

7.2.2 Suggestions for Further Study………………………………………………330

BIBLIOGRAPHY…………………………………………………………………………331