ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In pursuing my Ph.D. and developing this thesis, I have received contribution, help, and support from a number of friends, associates, scholars, researchers, organisations, and my students. Even though, I wish to convey my sincere thanks to all of them, I may not be able to do the justice to every one. Through these lines, however, I show my sincere gratitude and appreciation to all of them.

I wish to convey my sincere thanks to all the organisations who had responded positively to my questionnaire. This research work would not have seen the light of the day but for their responses.

My thanks to International Organization for Standardization, for supplying me two bound collections of ISO news during the year 2000.

My gratitude and thanks to Mr. Alireza Lari for permitting me to reproduce extracts of model suggested by him which has all the components required for the continuous evaluation of ISO 9000 certification.

My gratitude and thanks to (1) Marta CasadesuÀs, and Gerusa GimeÀnez both Assistant Professors of Quality Management, Universidad de Girona, Girona, Spain, and Inaki Heras, an Assistant Professor of Quality Management, Universidad del PaÀs Vasco, Bilbao, Spain, and (2) Erdal Erel and Jay B. Ghosh for sharing their experiences of the survey of ISO 9000 certified companies in Spain and Turkey respectively.

Thanks to Emerald Bradford, UK (who is the publisher of the world’s widest range of management journals) for providing free access to their two journals every week. I was able to refer to numerous full articles every week from these journals during the period 2002 – 03.

I express my sincere thanks to Prof. (Dr.) R. K. Prabhakar, Prof. (Dr.) J. S. Panwar, Dr. Darshana Dave, and Dr. P. K. Priyan. I wish to convey my gratitude to Dr. R. P. Patel, and Dr. Y. C. Joshi for helping me continuously during the progress of the research work.

My sincere gratitude to Dr. Shailesh Gandhi of IRMA for providing his valuable time in helping me for the development of the theme of the thesis, and to Dr. A. Shanubhogue of Department of Statistics, Sardar Patel University for sparing his valuable time in discussing with me and helping at various stages of statistical analysis.

I also convey my sincere gratitude to Dr. Hemant Trivedi of Bhavnagar University for helping me at various points particularly at the time of preparation of the questionnaire and following up with the industries in Bhavnagar for filling in the questionnaires. Thanks to Dr. Bharat Joshi of Bhavnagar University for helping at the questionnaire preparation stage.

My personal thanks to my friends Shri Kamlesh Udani, Shri H. T. Patel, Shri Vishvesh Pathak, Dr. Sanjay Bhayani of Saurashtra University, Dr. D. G. Hundiwale of North Maharashtra University at Jalgaon, Shri Ashok Zalani and Shri Rajul Mehta of Hirel Electronics (P) Ltd., Shri Pradip Azad, Shri P. M. Karia, Shri D. R. Mehta of Kalpataru Power Transmission Ltd., Shri Hiren Morabiya of IBH consultants Pvt. Ltd., Shri S. Das, and many others who had been helpful to me to get the questionnaires filled up either during my visits to various places or had followed up subsequently.
I am thankful to Shri Ashwin Patel for helping me at the time of taking the prints of the thesis.

My special thanks to the librarians of Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad; Institute of Rural Management (IRMA), Anand; Institute of Quality Assurance, Jaipur; Bhaikaka Library, Sardar Patel University, and library of our Institute, both at Vallabh Vidyanagar.

How can I forget my students who had always been ready to render me every type of help required at different stages of my work?

My thanks to Shri Roshan Thaker, Ms. Heena Parekh, Shri Bharat Patel, and Shri Jay Upadhyay of our office for all types of help, and Shri Dhananjay Dugwekar for his help in all computer related work.

My wife Damini had been helpful and considerate to me throughout my research work. She had been remaining at home alone for late hours almost everyday (after the departure of my daughter Himaja to USA) when I was spending my time in my office for the work. My son Kashyap, daughter Himaja and lately daughter-in-law Prarthana had been rendering their help at all stages. Kashyap had been very enthusiastic in sending a lot of material pertaining to the research work from USA. Himaja had provided immense help in my various activities of the research work.
