ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis is the outcome of my sincere efforts towards making an assessment of the various aspects of the discussed topic. The point of view of several authors and thinkers have been used to arrive at the same. The successful completion of my work can be owed to numerous people. I would like to thank few of them.

Words are inadequate to express my sincere gratitude to my guide Dr. Dalip Kumar, Professor, Department of Law, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra. I am thankful to Dr. Raj Pal Sharma, Dean & Chairman, Faculty of Law, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra for his able guidance to arrive at the completion of my thesis. I am also thankful to Prof. (Mrs.) Versha Rajdan, Department of Law, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra for her cooperation and valuable suggestion for the completion of my thesis. My special thanks are also due to staff of library of Indian Law Institute, New Delhi and Central Library of Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra for making me available the standard books, periodicals, journals and other material needed to complete this study. Lastly, but actually most importantly, I would like to thank my wife Ms. Poonam Jindal for her patience, love, encouragement during this course of work and my daughters Hiteshree and Anushree who despite of their tender age cooperated me & did not complain me of my absence.

Above all thank to the Almighty God for blessing me with the strength and capability to complete this venture.

(AMIT KUMAR GARG)