ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Any research attempt is not a simple task of searching something new, unavailable unseen or laying out of easy way and especially, an academic scientific research is all the more difficult affair involving the service of a number of persons, such as para research assistants for continued work and participants in research needed for facilitation and process of work in the field of research, as well as more important trained personal for adequate guidance and successful completion of research undertaken by the investigator, the author of the present investigation, have pleasure to acknowledge. My indebtedness to all such persons who have been instrumental directly or indirectly in lending their active support and co-operation in shaping my work.

First and foremost person on the list to whom the credit is extended has been Dr. Samir Jagdishbhai Patel, the reader of the department of psychology at Sardar Patel University Vallabh Vidhyanagar, who has served not only as an academic formal teacher to me but more as a friend, philosopher and guide from the day of its delivery and sub-mission to the proper hands of the university for the evaluation of its and for taking friendly care at every stage. I laboured hard and spent much of may energy, time and money under all sorts guidance from Dr. Samir J. Patel at all times. And at this juncture of my life, find no adequate words to express my indebtedness to such a conscientious guide.

To present the thesis in this form is like dream comes true for me, and at this time. I’m eager to express my gratitude towards. “The four pillars of my career. First at them is Mr. M.R. Mansuri (C.N. Arts and B.D. Commerce College Kadi) whose mental and financial help at the initial stage of my career, in my schooling enabled me to go through my study successfully. Next is Mr. M.R. Malik (Head, department of psychology St. Xavier’s college Ahmedabad) from whom. I knew the fundamentals at psychology. During my college days, when I was passing through a very critical position he comes to me like an angel. His financial help was life force for me during those days, and his educational help polished me as a student. The third pillar is Prin. B.M. Pirzada (L.J. Commerce college Ahmedabad). He is the person who gave me chance to enter into this profession. He knew my hidden abilities and them out. I will never forget this genuine help. And the last but not the least is Dr. B.R. Patel (Prin. N.V. Fas College VVN. and former president of Gujarat Rajya Adhyapak Mandal). Who took the stone named M.G. Mansuri in his hands, and made it pure gold. He brought out the traits of leadership from me, and established me as a leader of teacher's association in VVN, and also at state level and national level. The inspiration to start my research also come from him. "Be aware of your weaknesses" is the sentence, he has constantly been telling to me. Thus these are the persons without whom a naughtily boy of Kadi might not have earned the qualification, the status and the fame. I and might not have been lecturer M.G. Mansuri which he is today. I will be obliged to them till my last breathe.

Perhaps of more importance and immediate concern has been the enthusiastic co-operation of Dr. F.V. Chauhan, the principal of Nalini Arvind and T.V. Patel Arts college, Vallabh Vidhyanagar, who has been a devoted by born teacher, interested in the growth and career of all students. I was fortunate to share his expertise at the beginning time.

At the initial stage of the research would also procure expertise of Dr. Dinesh J. Panchal the senior most teacher of psychology, Arts and Commerce college Idar. He spent sufficient time and accepted to offer his assistance to me, to go through the whole format and all statistical design. He has helped me in statistical analysis and has rendered computer service that enhances aesthetic image to this thesis. My heart felt feelings at gratitude shall ever remain for such devoted teacher. Once again pass on my thanks to Dr. F.V. Chauhan and Dr. Dinesh J. Panchal.

para research works such as Mr. Vaibhav R. Joshi, Lecturer in English, Arts, Commerce and science college cambay and my dear friend who helped me in collecting data and in translating some matter from Gujarati to English.

In the same tone I should recollect the co-operation like Carutar Vidhya to study and because of whose help I could achieve what I have. I’m really very thankful to them.

A special reference needs to be made about Mr. Tejash Panchal, who took keen interest and rendered his help for getting the computer prints done in a professional way. A very sincere line full of thanks, goes to his grace.

Besides this formal academic thanks giving, my heart throbs with deeper feelings of gratitude to always enduring, ever supporting and encouraging members of my family. Mrs. Reshma Mansuri, My wife, who has always been with me in any of educational or cultural activities, I hearty, extend my feelings of thankfulness to her. I also owe deep gratitude to my brother in-low Mr. Samir N.
Mansuri, whose great support helped my work to be completed successfully and last but not the last I here, remember my heart beats, my children Raiyan and Roma. Throughout the research work, they were the care takers of my papers, and whose smiling faces were always there in my mind during the period.
When my thoughts are coming on papers in the form of words, I once again want to be thankful to all the persons who have been helpful to me in my work at whose presence, merely was inspiring for me. After these words of gratitude, I wish to sum up by few lines of Robert Frost which as an inspiration done for me.

"Woods are lovely, dark and deep but I have promises to keep miles to go before
I sleep, and miles to go before I sleep."
