This thesis is a brain child of four and a half years enduring effort of the researcher. At this juncture I would like to remember the following advice given by my guide, who always made it a point to every research scholar who approached him for the Ph.D guidance -"remember when you do a project you are not alone and the group effort shares the result but, when you initiated your Ph.D work you are ALL ALONE responsible for the success or failure of your efforts".

At this outset I would like to convey few words to my beloved guru and guide Prof. V. Murugaiah, “Sir, you never made me feel alone in this entire journey of knowledge sharing”.

I would like to sincerely thank Prof. V. Murugaiah, Professor and Chairman Davangere University, Davangere for his whole hearted support and guidance towards accomplishing my doctoral dissertation. I really appreciate your sense of understanding and professionalism as a true academician in encouraging me to learn from distinguished academicians at Indian Institute of Management Bangalore (IIMB), Bangalore. I am indebted for introducing and exposing me to the world of publishing in academics and research.

I am feeling elated to convey my regards and respect to my beloved Prof. B. Bakkappa Registrar (Evaluation), Davangere University, Davangere for his absolute confidence in my competence and motivating me to take up higher studies. Sir, you have always been a blessing in disguise in my academic and research career.

I am thankful to Prof. Rangappa, Prof. Suchitra, Prof. Lakshman, Prof. Eshawar, Prof. J. K Raju Davanagere University for their continuous academic and research endorsement and inspiration from the days of my Post Graduation at the University.

I sincerely thank the entire department of business administration both teaching and non teaching staff of Davangere University for showering all kinds of support and encouragement throughout my academic career at the University. I hope to share the strong relationship in the near future also.
It is my responsibility to convey my whole hearted thanks to all the distinguished professors in the area of marketing at IIMB for supporting me to complete my Ph.D during the course of my Internship at IIMB. My heartfelt thanks and regards to Prof. Srinivas Prakhya, Area Chair, Marketing IIMB for always reminding me about my Ph.D work and helping me set and meet my research deadlines. I am also thankful to you for introducing me to LISREL software and making me learn and understand the coding.

I would like to thank and acknowledge Prof. Ramesh Kumar S. Marketing Area, IIMB, for his kind support towards providing me an opportunity to work and co-author two case studies during my internship. I am fortunate to get his academic association and career guidance.

I am equally grateful to Prof. Mathew Manimala, Professor Organisation Behaviour, IIMB for his insightful suggestions and guidance in making me understand the concept of ‘Empowerment’ from his distinguished literatures and works in the area of social sciences.

It would be inequitable if I don’t remember and thank Prof. Ashis Misra, Assistant Professor, Retail Management, IIMB at this point in time. I am obliged to professor for providing me an opportunity to attend his retail management classes and guide projects of executive management students. I was opportune to take up training and consulting in the corporate arena under your supervision.

In this process I received a lot of direct and indirect support towards my research from many of my friends. I am gratified to Dr. Jaisimha, Professor IMT Nagpur, FPM students of IIMB Mr. Jayramä Holla, Mr. Suren, my colleagues Mr. Vaheed Ubedulla, Mr. Harisha B.V and my friends Mr. Manoj Pandey, Mr. Sujith S. H and Mr. Raghu Kumar V. Bose for all their kind hearted support and wishes.

Last but not the least, my sincere thanks to my family members my parents, in-laws and sisters who accepted me and my work without apparent umbrage and with barely audible complaint. My partial self isolation during the many years working on this research thesis has added on their responsibilities and workloads.
Besides all these their undeterred confidence in me and my work made me come out with flying colours.

It would be unfair if I don’t remember my six year old daughter Ananya Vishvas for bunking most of her classes and exams for the sake of my PhD term visits to University. She smilingly took the pain of unscheduled day and night journeys with me all these years. My thanks to your adaptability and love towards me - Thanks dear.

Life is all about sharing and caring, I am gratified to my husband and my best friend Mr. Vishvas B.S. Rao for his extraordinary belief in me and my calibre. It was his desire for higher studies made me accomplish vision of my life. Thanks one and all.
