ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author is indebted to his guide Dr. N. Balasubramanian, Professor, Department of Management Studies, University of Madras, for his valuable guidance given on various stages of work. The counsel and modifications suggested by him were extremely useful in bringing out the Thesis to this form.

The author wishes to express his gratitude to Dr. M.R. Sathyamurthy, Professor and Head, Department of Management Studies, University of Madras and Dr. M. Ranganatham, Department of Commerce, University of Madras for their constructive criticism and valuable suggestions made during the course of the research study.

The author expresses his thanks to Dr. P.T. Srinivasan, Professor, Department of Management Studies, University of Madras and Dr. K. Krishnnaiah, Professor and Head, Industrial Engineering Division, Anna University, for their support extended during the research study.

The author sincerely thanks Shri R. Raju, Divisional Mechanical Engineer, Southern Railway for his continuous support, advise and valuable assistance made for the progress and improvement in the presentation of this work.

The author expresses his sincere and profound thanks to Shri Amzad Mehmood, Shri T.M. Ali Akbar and Shri G. Mohan of Heavy Vehicles Factory, Avadi, Chennai for their untiring service in the preparation and compiling of the research report.
The author wishes to appreciate the wholehearted help given by Shri P.G. Sathiya Doss, Shri V.G. Dharmarajan, Shri J. Sundararajan, Shri M. Kamalakkannan and Shri C. Rajendran of Heavy Vehicles Factory, Avadi, Chennai for their secretarial help in collecting articles and questionnaires and preparation of research report.

The author is grateful to all others who have directly and indirectly worked for the success of this study.

The patient and persevering interest and encouragement given by all the family members is greatly acknowledged.

S. Mahadevan