Acknowledgements

First of all my sincere thanks to all the patients of Shirdi Sai Baba Cancer Hospital who participated in the study in spite of their debilitating illness, excruciating pain and suffering. My heartfelt prayers to those who passed away among them.

I owe my deepest gratitude to my Guide Dr. PSVN Sharma Professor and HOD, Department of psychiatry, the master builder who worked through the uncertainties that emerged during the course of the study. His uncommon wisdom and progressive empathy enabled me to resume the work that was almost abandoned. His scholarly suggestions and analytic mode of thinking have become the building blocks of this thesis.

I am indebted to the Manipal University for kindly permitting me to complete the project in spite of taking extra time.

I am grateful to my Co guide, Dr. M.S. Vidyasagar, former professor and Head of the department, Radiation Oncology for giving official permission to conduct the study among the patients of Shri Shirdi SaiBaba Cancer Hospital Manipal and providing unconditional support at every stage of the study.

I would like to thank Dr. Rajasekhar B., Dean MCOAHS, for his profound concern, and dynamic altruism that materialized the reemergence of this work.

I am grateful to my former guide Dr. K.B.Kumar, former Professor and HOD of department of Clinical Psychology, KMC, Manipal for his inputs that shaped the present study and suggestions for improvisations that enriched my learning experience.

I would like to show my gratitude to Dr.B.M.Vadiraj, my neighbor and former Associate Professor, Department of Radiation Oncology, for always finding time to clarify my doubts related to the subject. He was instrumental in categorizing patients according to the stage of illness, and analgesics they received.

I express my sincere gratitude to Dr.Asha Kamath, Asst Professor, Department of community Medicine for finding time to take the whole burden of statistical analysis and offering a compassionate listening to my trivial doubts, readiness to clarify them regardless of the tempo spatial limitations.

I am grateful to Dr. Sreekumaran Nair Professor and Head, Department of Statistics for giving a broad outline about the statistical analysis and having offered all necessary instrumental support for it.

My sincere thanks to Dr. Donald Fernandez and Dr. Koteshwara Rao for giving permission to recruit their patients for the study.

I acknowledge the support extended by all the nursing staff of Shirdi Sai Baba cancer Hospital throughout my data collection.

I would like to place on record the steady stream of scholarly inputs offered by Dr. Immanuel Thomas, Professor, Department of Psychology, Kerala University.
I am grateful to Dr. Latha, Dr. Gunasagari, Dr. Haridas, Mrs. Shashikala Rajavarma, and Mrs. Malathi Tantri for preparing Kannada translations of the tools and Ms. Sahana Madhyastha for scrutinization. My sincere thanks to Dr. Pushpa and Dr. Mini for preparing Malayalam translations of all the scales.

My Sincere thanks to Dr. Sebastian and Mr. Johnson for their support and concern. I am also thankful to all the staff and students of Department of Clinical Psychology.
