ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

While presenting my findings on the 'Changing Social Structure of Rural Punjab', I want to express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. M.L. Sharma, Associate Professor in Rural Sociology, Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana, who not only initiated me into the discipline, but also introduced me with some excellent models for the study of rural phenomena. He has been a constant source of encouragement and inspiration, and has helped me in every possible way in the completion of this project.

Thanks are also due to Dr. V.S. D'Souza, Professor of Sociology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, and other members of his staff for valuable suggestions.

Sh. Mehr Singh Gill, Research Assistant, Punjabi University, Patiala, prepared the map of Punjab, and Shri Maurata Singh took extra pains in typing and retyping this thesis. Thanks are due to them both.

I am also thankful to Sarvshri Randhir Singh 'Chand', Ajit Singh 'Amakhi', Surain Singh, Udai Singh, Master Ashok Ram and Pal Singh for their help rendered during the collection of data.

My thanks are due to Nirmal, my wife, who in addition to the performance of her household duties rendered me a great assistance in tabulating and writing this report.

And above all I am deeply indebted to Dr. P.R.R. Sinha, Associate Professor, Extension, Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana, but for whose mature guidance and extraordinary interest in the project, it would not have been possible for me to present this thesis, as it is.
