ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I express a deep sense of gratitude to my esteemed teacher and supervisor, Dr. Balwant R. Kandoi, Ex-Chairman/Head, Department of Economics, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his impeccable guidance, keen interest, useful suggestions and constructive criticism and sustained encouragement throughout the course of this study. His incessant patience proved to be of immense help.

Thanks giving may be a matter of merely formality in the case of others, but with me, it is an expression of heart felt gratitude to my respected co-supervisor, Dr. B. B. Tandon, Ex-Chairman/Head, University Business School (Formerly Department of Commerce and Business Management), Panjab University, Chandigarh, without whose scholarly guidance and valuable suggestions, systematic and encouraging attitude, it would not have been possible for me to complete this study.

I gratefully acknowledge the permission given by the Directorate of Nursing, Haryana, Chandigarh to collect data from different Nursing Colleges in the state of Haryana. I am immensely obliged to Dr. (Mrs.) Bimla Sharma, Director General Health, Haryana, Chandigarh for allowing me to have an access to the information regarding Nursing Colleges in Haryana. My sincere thanks are to Mrs. Sachdeva, Statistical Branch, Chandigarh. I put on record my appreciation for all the Principals of different Nursing Colleges in Haryana for providing me relevant information. Interaction with Dr. Batra, Chairman, Department of Health Economics, National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi and his help during visits proved invaluable. I am grateful to Assistant Director (Project) Mrs. Monir Gujral, in the State Health and Family Welfare Institute, Panchkula, for providing me necessary information on the World Bank Project. I am grateful to Dr. Prabha Arora, Department of Health Economics, National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi, for her useful suggestions in carrying out research.

I am obliged to Dr. B. B. L. Sharma, Reader, Department of Health Economics, National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi, Dr. Tulsi Dhar, Institute of Public Finance, New Delhi, Dr. Gomber, National Council of Applied Economics Research, New Delhi, Dr. Sharma, Chairman, Human Resource Department, Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU), New Delhi, for their useful suggestions to improve the study.

My obligations are extended to all the officials of Nursing Training Colleges, Haryana, Employment Exchange, Chandigarh and all the ex-trainees who have kindly co-operated me in collecting data for the present study. Without their cooperation this study would not have been feasible.
My thanks are due to Dr. Abnash C. Julka, Chairman/Head, Department of Economics, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for a very stimulating discussion and his suggestions. I acknowledge my sincere thanks to Dr. M. R. Aggarwal, Ex-Director, ICSSR, Chandigarh.

I also express my thanks to the Library staff especially Sh. Ved Prakash, of the Department of Economics, Panjab University, Chandigarh. My thanks are due to Library officials of Delhi School of Economics and Institute of Economic Growth, Ratan Tata Library, Delhi and National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi for helping me to collect the necessary materials for this study.

Finally I am deeply grateful to my husband Dr. Vijay Kumar, for his help and encouragement and for typing my thesis. My mother Mrs. Urmila Markandey and my son Kartikeya deserve special thanks for providing me necessary mental peace during the study.
