Acknowledgements

I hereby thank all the people who have encouraged me, showed me the right path, provided practical support, given their time and skills, and consistently demonstrated a belief in this project and myself.

I express deep regards and veneration, to my guide, Prof. Jitendra Mohan, Professor Emeritus, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh. He is known for his highly intellectual and unblemished work in the field of sports psychology, health psychology and positive psychology. It has been a great privilege for me to work under his insightful knowledge and inspiring direction. His passion for excellence and dedication to education was an inspiration for this project. I am fortunate to have been mentored by such a great psychologist who truly practices what he preaches, and treat others, including his students, with kindness, respect, compassion, and dignity. I thank him for helping me develop a critical perspective that influences all my work and that I will carry far beyond this dissertation.

I am equally grateful to Prof. Meena Sehgal, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh for her valuable time, editing skills, valuable feedback, and high expectations. Her wisdom has always acted as a catalyst in accelerating my efforts. She has not only artfully guided me but has also been a source of immense strength, support and inspiration. Her constructive criticism and valuable suggestions at every step have shaped my thesis.

I would like to humbly thank the entire Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for their assistance and support in extending this research.

I would also like to share my deep regards for the school principals who willingly allowed me to conduct the research within their schools and the school teachers who helped to organize the data collection. I would also like to thank the adolescents who keenly agreed to participate in this research.
I would like to express my gratitude to Dr. Sandhya Ghai, Dr. Sunita Sharma and Dr. Karobi Das for their kind cooperation and assistance. I also want to acknowledge Dr. Devender Kumar for the constant encouragement and guidance to complete this study. I sincerely thank him for his considerable help in facilitating my research.

On a personal note, I am extremely grateful to my parents and my brother for their generous support and belief in me to be able to accomplish this endeavor. I feel really blessed in life by having their presence around me.

Life can’t be complete without the support of great friends and I feel very fortunate to have some nice human beings close to me, who have always stood by me whenever I needed them. Words are really short to express heartiest thanks to my friends Guneet, Geetanjali, Navdeep and Surbhi who always stood by me. They have been my springboards. Without their care and support, I could not have overcome. A special thank to Harpreet for extending her help in digital library search.

Finally I acknowledge with gratitude to the ‘Almighty’, for being the ultimate source of inspiration to me.
