ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

No words can repay the intellectual debt, but I cannot escape my duty to acknowledge gratefulness to those who offered valuable guidance and suggestions for the successful completion of this doctoral thesis.

I owe a deep sense of unbounded indebtedness to my supervisor, Dr. (Mrs) Asha Gupta, Reader, Department of Education, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for her ungrudging support in providing expert advice from time to time at every stage of the study. Her excellent spirit, constant encouragement, illuminative guidance coupled with her kind and sympathetic behaviour not only made it possible for me to benefit from her helpful comments but also aroused in me a habit of clear thinking as a researcher.

My thanks are due to Dr. Harish Sharma, Professor and Chairman, Department of Education, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for providing me the necessary facilities in the department.

Acknowledgement of deep appreciation is extended to Professor J.N. Joshi, Professor S. Gakhar, Dr. A. Bhushan, Dr. G. S. Sodhi, and Dr. A. Sethi for their expert advice and encouragement during the course of the present investigation.

With a deep sense of gratitude, I take this opportunity to thank Addis Ababa University in general and the Institute of Educational Research in particular for granting me leave to carry out this project. Also I acknowledge my thanks to the Indian Council For Cultural Relations for the financial assistance in the form of maintenance allowance and contingent grant.

It gives me immense pleasure to express my deep sense of gratitude and record my feelings of appreciation for my wife, Mehret Sahlemariam who proved to be an inspiring and understanding companion throughout the course of the study. In fact, the work is dedicated to her who in her unique way has made it possible for me to complete it. I am internally grateful to her and to all our children for tolerating all the disruptions and turmoil this undertaking created in their lives.
I cannot adequately express the appreciation that I feel to all those persons who helped me, in a wide variety of ways, in the execution and completion of the study. My special thanks are due to all the staff members of Faculty of Education of Addis Ababa University, who participated in the classroom observation during the time of data collection.

In the end, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all authors whose works I have consulted so frequently and quoted in my research work.
