ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I take this opportunity to extend my heart-felt gratitude to a large number of people of Sidhawer and Sripur Village Panchayats of Nepal who gave me full cooperation during the field survey for this study. The relevant functionaries of the panchayats and schools of the two localities also spared their valuable time to talk to me, allowed me to examine their records and correspondence and permitted me to be present at their meetings and visit their offices. I thank them all, particularly Mr. Giri Raj Pant, Dev Shekhar Mishra, Tara Nath Joshi, Madan Raj Bhandari, Sidha Raj Bhandari, Prem Raj Badu, Gaja Raj Chowdhary, Ayodha Prasad Chowdhary and Basu Dev Pant of Sripur Panchayat; and Dr. Laxmi Kant Pant, Lok Raj Pant, Dev Bahadur Balayar, Nav Raj Bhattarai, Hari Prasad Pant, Durga Prasad Roshyara, Khagendra Prasad Bhatt, Ishwori Dutt Pant and Khadga Bahadur Saud of Sidhawer Panchayat. Also, I wish to express my gratitude to the Government officials at central and district levels who helped me by furnishing the needed information. I am particularly thankful to Mr. Chiranjibi Sharma, Deputy Secretary; and Uttam Prasad Upadhyaya, Section Officer, Planning Division, Ministry of Education; Dr. Ram Krishna Shrestha, Chief, National Population Census Mapping Project and National Economic Atlas Project; Keshav Raj Sharma, Deputy Secretary, Central Bureau of Statistics; P.D. Subhash, DFO, Kailali District; Hem Raj Lekhak, DFO, Doti District; Nand Raj Pant, DFO, Dadeldhura District; and Dilli Raj Joshi, Administrative Officer, Kailali District.
It gives me immense pleasure to express my deep sense of gratitude to my revered supervisor Dr. S.S. Mathur, Chairman/Head, Department of Education, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his able and painstaking guidance and encouragement. His interest in the study of Nepal, a society in transition, was a great source of inspiration.

I am also grateful to Prof. J.N. Joshi, Department of Education, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his affection and inspiration throughout the period of my stay.

My special thanks go to the librarians of Panjab University, Chandigarh; NCERT, New Delhi; ICSSR, New Delhi; Central Library, Tribhuvan University, and Curriculum Resource Centre of the Institute of Education, Kirtipur Campus, Kathmandu for their help to me in searching out the needed materials.

Mr. A.S. Rawat who took meticulous care to type this thesis also deserves hearty thanks.

My gratitude goes to Tribhuvan University, Nepal for granting me study leave from my post of lecturer at the Institute of Education and thereby providing me opportunity for this study.

Finally, my greatest debt is to my grand mother Saraswoti, wife Rekha and Brother Dr. Prem Raj Pant whose constant inspiration and encouragement throughout the period of study provided me the strength to complete this work in time.

YAGYA RAJ PANT

Chandigarh, India