Acknowledgements

In pursuing this dissertation, I received help and cooperation from innumerable sources. While, it is difficult to make a mention of all, I am highly indebted to them. My first and foremost thanks are due to my Supervisor, Dr. Surya Kant, Reader in Geography, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his encouragement, and guidance.

My thanks are also due to Professor Gopal Krishan, who has always remained a constant source of inspiration to me. In addition, all my colleagues in the Department have been extremely helpful and encouraging to me. Dr. (Mrs.) Smita Bhutani, Chairperson, has been generous to allow me the use of research facilities in the Department. Other colleagues, including Prof. R.C. Chandna, Prof. (Mrs.) Swarnjit Mehta, Prof. K.D. Sharma, Dr. R.P.S. Gosal, Dr. (Mrs.) Dhian Kaur, Dr. Karanjot Kaur, Dr. (Ms) Pippa Deodhar, and Dr. Anindita Datta rendered all possible help and encouragement to me. Cartographic advice and help received from Shri Mehar Singh and Shri Mohan Singh and the help of scanning through the manuscript by Mrs. Ravinder Kaur require a special mention.

I am also grateful to officials in the Planning Commission, and Central Ministries of Industry, Rural Development, Tribal Affairs, and Finance for their cooperation in making necessary information available to me. In this regard, my special thanks are due to Dr. (Mrs.) Indu Patnaik, and Mr. Y.P. Bhagat, Dy. Advisers, Planning Commission.

Also, I am highly indebted to Dr. K.V. Sundaram, Founder Chairman Bhoovigyan Vikas Foundation and formerly Joint Advisor, Planning Commission, for enriching my ideas by his vast experiences in the planning field. My thanks are also due to Mr. A. K. Nanda, SRO, PRC, CRRID, Chandigarh, and to Dr. Damdar Panda, Reader in Central Asian Studies, Panjab University, for lively and fruitful discussions and interactions. Mr. Rakesh Arora deserves my most sincere thanks for his timely help and efficient typing of the manuscript, and Dr. Rajni Lamba, Anthropologist, for her help in editing the draft.

Last but not the least, I am greatly indebted to my parents, wife, Mrs. Nishi Mohan, and my kids, Manisha and Saurabh, for bearing with me without any complaint. They always stood by me and gave required moral support and encouragement.

April, 2001

(Krishna Mohan)
Lecturer in Geography,
Panjab University, Chandigarh