ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I don’t think I had as much difficulty in writing the thesis, that I am having in writing this page. It is indeed not possible to express in words, the sense of gratefulness, deep respect, warm affection and above all, the feeling of intellectual fulfillment that I have experienced in the course of my interaction with Prof. (Mrs.) Vidhu Mohan who was not only my mentor and guide but also a model of a person, who always stands for what is correct. My gratitude also goes out Dr. (Mrs.) P. Vasudeva, Chairperson, Psychology Department, Punjab University for providing the necessary facilities and infrastructure.

I would not have been able to complete this major project of my life, if it wasn’t for the loving support of my husband and my in-laws who were always ready to babysit my children without a grudge, and to provide me with professional insights where I thought none were possible.

Thanks also to each and every one of the 386 individuals who provided the valuable data for this research, to Mr. Vijay Kumar of Case Computers, Chandigarh for sparing his valuable time to undertake the statistical analysis for this project, and to Tanuja and Minica of Computer Management Services for the word processing.
