ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It gives me great pleasure in expressing a few words of gratitude to those who have initiated me to research, encouraged, helped and above all guided me in completing this research work.

Perhaps, words may fail to express my gratitude to my learned guide, Dr. (Mrs.) Yidhu Mohan, without whose wise counsel and personal interest in the problem this project would not have taken the present shape. She taught me research and its meticulous details like a devoted teacher interested in teaching a beginner. Sometimes I did not come up to her expectations, but her patience, devotion to research, sharp understanding and scholarly approach increased my motivation to complete the work. But for her, the ideal guide and scholar, this work would have been very difficult. I express my profoundest regards and earnest gratitude to her for having put a crude learner on the path of research.

I express my thanks to Dr. (Mrs.) H.K. Nijhawan, Head of the Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for her cooperation and the facilities provided to me in the department.

I am very thankful to Dr. Jatinder Mohan, a devoted researcher, formerly Head, Department of Psychology, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, who initiated me to take up a research project. His mature advice and guidance at certain critical moments during the progress of work have been helpful in overcoming the tides.
I must express my thanks to the Master Programmer, Shri C.M. Behl, a smiling guide, to whom perhaps I was a source of much botheration. He spared no pains to solve my difficulties. He, with his other colleagues (Mr. Kalra and Mr. Mohindroo) always rescued me from the trap of difficulties. I thank them all.

I am thankful to Dr. Mrs. J.K. Pillai, Professor of Education, Madurai University, for her cooperation and valuable suggestions in carrying on this project.

I express my special thanks to the Principals and Members of the staff of the Polytechnics who have extended their whole-hearted cooperation in providing excellent facilities for the collection of data from their institutes.

I express my gratitude to the Indian Council of Social Sciences Research for awarding grant-in-aid of Rs.2400/- for the completion of this project.

I am also thankful to Dr. Dalip Kumar Malhotra and Mr. Jagat Mohan Jerath for their valuable suggestions for doing the analysis of the data.

I express my thanks to Mr. Sabharwal and Mr. Arora for their cooperation in office matters.

I am very thankful to Mr. J.L. Bajaj, for typing the thesis neatly and accurately. He had to put in a lot of effort and perseverance for doing this work in a very short time.

I have to record my thanks to Mrs. Sharda Vohra, who worked tirelessly with me in tabulating, checking and editing of the manuscript. She always shared my burden with pleasure.

(Hari Bhajan Lal Vohra)