Acknowledgements

I do express my deepest sense of gratitude towards my research guide and teacher, Dr Mabel Fernandes, without whose able guidance and supervision the thesis could not have taken its form. She introduced me to Mahasweta Devi and it was a special privilege to work with the lady, in the above pursuit, who offered me all her motherly affection, at times essential reprimands, and moral as well as financial support during the research activity. It has really been an unforgettable experience for me.

It is my prior duty to extend my special gratitude to the Western Regional Office of the UGC for the financial assistance it offered me for completion of the PhD work under Minor Research Project Scheme.

My sincere thanks are also due to Dr Satish Deshpande, Head, Dept of English, Dr Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, Dr A G Khan, Dr Kashinath Ranveer, Prof Bheemrao Bhosale, Dr M F Jilthe, all being my teachers, Dr Hameed Khan, Rev. Dr Athawale and Dr Vaishali Pradhan for their kind wishes and support.

I must also thank Hon. Ankushrao Tope, President, Hon. Rajesh Tope, Secretary, respectively of MSS, Jalna for the incentive they provided. Dr Bhagwatrao Katare, our Principal, has always encouraged and staunchly supported me and inquired after my research work, therefore, I am grateful to him. I could not forget Dr V R Kadam, the vice-Principal, Dr B R Gaikwad, Prof B S Jadhav and Prof G A Hade who have always supported me morally—I am in appreciation of them. Dr Ghumre S K, the librarian, and his staff deserve to be thanked for their making essential space available for me, in the college library, during the research period. My specific thanks go to Mr Pandurang Gahire, O. S., for his kind cooperation. I am also especially grateful to the librarians, and their staff, of Dr BAMU, Aurangabad, EFLU and HCU, Hyderabad that offered all the cooperation without a second’s delay. Their generosity each deserves a special mention.

Mr Sukla of Vidyavihar Publication, Mr Pradeep Vajpeyee of Parag Parkashan, both from Kanpur (UP) and Vidya Books, Aurangabad were of great help to me to have made me the books available forthwith. I am appreciative of them.

Mr Bhalekar Ramprasad has always stood by me all through my thick and thin, my special thanks go to him. My thanks are particularly due to Dr Uttam Ambhore, Mr Jeevan Masure, Dr Dhananjay Deolalkar, Mr Vishwaprakash Sirsat, Mr P S Turukmane, Dr Mustajeeb, Mr Anand Ubale for their valuable suggestions, Mr S G Raut, Mr G. T. R. Shinde, Mr Peter and David for their kind support.
I must extend my unfeigned thanks to Mr Suresh Deshmukh, one of my best students, Dr Sunita Wature, Mr Vishal Kurhe, Ms Ashwini Savji and Ms Roshani who undertook the painstaking task of DTP of the thesis. I am greatly thankful to all my students— I fall short of space to mention them— whose love and respect enthused and helped me morally.

My family has always stood four-square behind me sharing all my burdens. I owe a very special debt of gratitude to them. To start with my grandparent, Mrs Laxmi Pandit, parents, Mrs and Mr Bhagwan Pandit, Mrs and Mr Ashok Pandit who have educated me tertiary-level onwards as their adopted son, Mrs Pradnya, my life partner, who never quailed under any circumstances to support me, and my sister, Surekha whose readiness to help me all the time is a memory ever. I also owe my heartfelt thanks to those that supported me indirectly in this research pursuit. I extend my deep indebtedness to Mrs Savitatai and Mr Ramesh Waghmare and Abhijeet for having provided the comfortable accommodation to us family during our stay in Ambad.

Sheeladitya and Attadeep, my sons, relieved me of every psychological strain with their smile, funny interventions and consistent accompaniment during my studies, hence my thank-you to them.

Finally, I would like to remain in acknowledgement of all those friends and well-wishers that were indirectly part of this project wishing me all well.
