ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Language is, in my estimation, a divine gift, which aids us in our connections with people.

I am indebted to my supervisor Dr. Namratha M, Reader, Department of Post Graduate Studies in English for her encouragement, valuable guidance, kindness and consideration she has shown to me throughout the years of my association with her.

I am deeply grateful to Dr. Rajendra Chenni, Professor, Dept. of P.G.Studies and Research in English for his scholarly suggestions and benevolence, and for giving me a good opportunity to work as a guest faculty at the Language Training Centre which helped me to conduct the survey.

My Special thanks are due to Dr. Rachel Bari, the Chairperson, Dept. of P. G. Studies and Research in English for scholarly suggestions and benevolence.

My warmest thanks to the faculty, the Dept. of English, Kuvempu University, Shankaraghatta for their support.

I express my whole hearted thanks to:

My beloved teachers: Prof. K.V. Tirumalesh, Prof. Rajagopal, and Prof. B.A. Prabhakar Babu, of CIEFL, Hyderabad, for their sympathetic and incisive criticism.

Prof. R.V. Ram, Prof. Tewolde, Prof. Tekle, of Eritrea Institute of Technology, (Mainefhi, Eritrea), for their guidance in conducting the field work.

Dr. Meti Mallikarjun, Dept of Linguistics, Sahyadri Arts and Science College, Shimoga, for his scholarly suggestions.

My colleagues at Manipal Institute of Technology, Manipal University, Manipal, for their encouragement.

I am equally grateful to Mrs. Sushma Reddy, Mr. Sudhakar, Mr. Dinesh, Ms. Sudha and Mr. Udaykumar M. Deshpande for composing the text.

My special thanks are also due to the members of my family for their patience and support.

G. M. TUNGESH