BIBLIOGRAPHY
BIBLIOGRAPHY

Bloom, B.S (1968): Learning for mastery, Los angle university of California, centre for the study of education of instruction.

Brown, David Scott (2000): The effect of individual and group concept mapping on student’s conceptual understanding of photo- synthesis and cellular respiration in three different academic levels of biology classes. Dissertation Abstracts International- A Vol. 61, No.04, 1272P.

Buch, M.A “Second Survey of research in education 91972-78.” Society of educational research and development, Baroda (India).

Diener, Charles L (1960): “Similarities and differences between over-achieving and under-achieving students, person guidance”, Journal 38; pp, 396-400.

Dinesh (2003):“Study habits of science, art and commerce students at different levels of intelligence” M.Ed dissertation, Panjab University, Chandigarh.

Dunn D (1978): “Teaching students through their individual learning style, a practical approach” Reston publishing company INC.

Evans, Sheryl L (2004): Study habits of college students and their perceptions of the impact of brain-based attention strategies on their independent study time. The University of North Dakota, 271 pages; AAT 3162898 Dissertation Abstract International-A66/02; P, 510.

He, Yunfeng (2006): The role of thinking styles in learning and achievement among Chinese university students, University of Hong Kong, 2006; AAT0809476, DAI-A 67/08, Feb 2007.

Horton, P.B; McConney, A.A; Gallo, M (1993): An investigation of the effectiveness of concept mapping as an instructional tool. Science Education.77 (1), 95-111.

Jamuar, K. K (1961): Investigation of some psychological factors underlying the study habits of college’s students, Ph.D. Edu., Patna University.

Lefton, L.A (1985): Psychology University of South Carolina: Allyn and Bacon Inc.

Megargee, D (2000): Interactive teaching and learning. Facilitating learning disabled students’ transition from novice to expert literacy theory and research, 311-319 as reported in graphic organizers.

Morrow, B.D (1972): the relationship of fifth grade students, self concept and attitude toward mathematics to academic achievement in arithmetical computation, concepts and application D.A.I; vol 32, No8.

Reynolds, C.R and Torrance, E.P (1978): Perceived changes in styles of learning and thinking (Hemisphericity) through direct and indirect training: Gifted child quarterly, 12, PP. 247-52

Schiever, S.W (1986): The effect of two teaching, learning model on higher cognitive processes of students in classes of gifted, dissertation abstract international- Vol. 47, No. 11, and P. 4059 A.

Skidimore, Lynnda A (2008): Concept mapping to promote meaningful leaning at the community college level. Walden University, Educational Department; 189 pages; AAT 3290943.

Snead, Donald (2000): Concept mapping and science achievement of middle-grade students, University of Kentucky; Dissertation Abstract International-A 61/04, P.1346.

Torrance, E.P (1979): Sounds and Images imagery as a potential indicator of style of learning and thinking journal of creative behavior, 15, and 279.

160

Walia (1975): The study habits of the XI grade high and low achievers in relation to their socio-economic status, MA dissertation, Punjabi University.

