ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is my proud privilege to place on record my sincere feelings of gratitude to Mr. Ram Copal, M.A., Ph.D., Kalidasa Professor of Sanskrit, Panjab University, Chandigarh, who has always proved to be a source of great inspiration and guidance right from the selection of the topic upto the completion of the work.

I am deeply indebted to Mr. Jagannath Agrawala, Ex-Reader in Sanskrit, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his vigorous encouragement, benign inspiration, constructive criticism and venerable suggestion at every step. But for his guidance, this thesis in the present form would not have been possible.

Profound thanks are due to Dr. Parmesh Nath Gupta, Reader in Sanskrit, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra, for facilitating the task to high degree.

I am also thankful to Dr. J. L. Dogra, the Librarian, Vishveshvaranand Library, Hoshiarpur, S. J. R. Temaja of the Extension Library, Ludhiana and the staff of the libraries of Archæological Survey of India, New Delhi and Panjab University, Chandigarh, for providing all possible library facilities.

I am deeply thankful to Dr. Harpal Singh Gill for his untiring and conscientious labour and general assistance in the stupendous task of compiling this dissertation.

Sincere thanks are also due to Sh. Rishi Ram Sharma for his valuable help and for inculcating interest in geographical field. I am also indebted to Dr. Hardyal Singh Gill, Chief-Medical Officer, Panjab University, Chandigarh, without whose cooperation this piece of research would not have been possible.

I am also grateful to Sh. D. Parasher, Head of the Department of English, L.R.M. College, Jagraon, for his inspiration and encouragement during the period of study.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not thank the authors whom I have quoted in the dissertation. They have been, indeed, a source of inspiration to me.
