ACKNOWLEDGMENT

By the grace of Guru Nanak Dev Ji, I have been able to undertake the work Right to Information in India: A Critique of the Right to Information Act. I record my deep sense of obligation and extreme sincere gratitude to my reverend guide Dr. Dayanand Garg, Associate Professor, Department of Law and Former Director of Law, Swami Sarvanand Giri Regional Centre, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his constant advice, genuine and inspiring guidance and persistent encouragement in preparation of this humble work. I have a hearty and deep reverence for him as remain always helpful throughout the period of my research work. I am fortunate enough to have supervision of a legal luminary of the stature of Dr. Dayanand Garg, whose juristic and scholarly acumen is widely acclaimed in the legal world, without his constant, patience help and keen-in-sight, this thesis would not have been possible within prescribed time.

I also acknowledge my thanks to Dr. Nistha Jaswal, Professor and Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh for his cooperation in the completion of this study. I express my sincere thanks to Prof P.S. Jaswal, Former Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Dr. Shashi K. Sharma, Professor and Former Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Dr. M.S. Bains, Professor of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh, Dr. Prem Nath, Associate Professor, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh. I express my sincere thanks to Prof D.N. Jauhar, Former Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Dr. Veer Singh, Former Chairman, Department of Laws and Dean University Instruction, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Prof. V.K. Bansal, Former Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh whose constant support and guidance albeit silent is incredible.

This is also an opportunity to extend my acknowledgement to Lecturer Suresh Kumar Bhatia who has been consistently encouraging and inspiring me to take up and complete this manuscript at all levels. I am also grateful to teaching and non-teaching staff of Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh for their encouragement and support.

I am deeply indebted to all the Indian and foreign writers and Judges whose writings and decisions have been duly cited in this work and have given me inspiration and light for preparing this work. I acknowledge my gratitude to those authors also whose work helped me enormously in formulating my views and enriching my thoughts.

I appreciate the cooperation extended by the library staff and librarians of Department of Laws and University Institute of Legal Studies and A.C. Joshi Library, Panjab University, Chandigarh. British Library of Chandigarh, Indian Law Institute Library, The Indian Society of International Law Library and the American Centre Library of International Law, New Delhi for providing the relevant material and up to date relevant information required for research work.

I express my deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to my prestigious father Sh. Joginder Singh Sudan, respected mother Smt. Narendrer Kaur and all family members. I also express my thanks to Sh. Mahender Pal Singh Ishar and my friend Sh. Ravinder Jyani, who all inspired me for higher studies. I thank my all elders and well wishers who gave me inspiration and encouragement for which I am deeply beholden to them.

Words fail me as I take this opportunity to dedicate this work in the memory of my grandfather Late Seth Hukam Singh Sudan and my grandmother Late Smt. Tulsi Kaur Ji for it was because of them this research work was initialised by me in the first place.

Last but not the least; I feel grateful to Sh. Padam Prakash Verma, who took enough pains not only in typing the manuscript but also helped me in finalizing and editing the manuscript.
