PREFACE

For collecting material for this work I have visited various Libraries in India and contacted various foreign diplomatic channels in India. I express my thanks to Librarian, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh; Librarian, Central Library, Panjab University, Chandigarh; Librarian, Indian Law Institute, Delhi. I am also thankful to the Office of British High Commission, Delhi; Office of the U.S. Embassy, Delhi; Office of the U.S.S.R. Embassy, Delhi; for supplying me the necessary material on the Law of Marriage and Divorce in their respective countries.

I owe my deepest gratitude to my supervisor Professor Dr. Paras Diwan, LL.M., Ph.D., Ex-Professor of Laws, and Ex-Chairman, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh, now Executive Director, Haryana Legal Aid to Poor Committee, Chandigarh under whose able guidance, I have worked on this thesis, without which this work would not have been completed. His invaluable guidance, encouragement and help about the subject matter of this work is clear throughout the entire work. He spent much of his valuable time in reading the manuscript and then guiding and supervising this work at all stages in spite of his other pressing engagements and intellectual pre-occupations.

I express my thanks to Dr. Pedro F. Silva-Ruiz, Associate Professor, University of Puerto Rico, U.S.A., who was a Visiting Professor in Panjab University, Department of Laws, Chandigarh, in 1990, for inspiring me and providing me necessary information about the Law of Marriage and Divorce in that part of the world even after his return to his country.

I feel it my duty to acknowledge my indebtedness to Prof. Virendra Kumar, LL.M., D. Jur. (Toronto), Professor of Laws, Ex-Chairman of the Department of Laws and Dean of Faculty of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh; Prof. Balram K. Gupta, LL.M., Ph.D., Chairman of the Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Dr. Basant Kumar Sharma, LL.M., Ph.D., Lecturer in Law, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh for their thoughtful suggestions and constructive criticism which helped me a lot to improve and complete this work. Dr. B.K. Sharma, despite his pre-occupation has read the proof.

I am also grateful to my students, colleagues, friends who with their intelligent questions and discussion helped me to go to the depths and understand better the various concepts of laws discussed in this work.

Last, but in no way the least, I am thankful to my wife who is also my colleague (Dr. Mrs. M.K.S. Singh, LL.M., Ph.D., Delhi, Professor Criminal Law and Criminology Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh) for her encouragement. I had almost left the idea to submit it after I was asked to revise it second time. She with her own experience of guiding research, with her suggestions, helped me in bringing about improvement in this work.

This is a revised thesis submitted for the third and last time under the Panjab University Rules and in accordance with the extracts from the report of the examiner supplied to me by the Registrar, Panjab University, Chandigarh. Every attempt has been made to incorporate all the suggestions and remove the mistakes to the full satisfaction of my learned supervisor Dr. Paras Diwan.

Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh.

SUKHDEV SINGH