ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

As I begin to take up this endeavor of expressing my gratitude, I get this feeling that this will probably be the most fascinating and satisfying portion of the entire work that I have carried out during these years. I feel deeply overwhelmed and nostalgic about the genuine care and concern and about the unconditional support that has been rendered onto me by so many beautiful people.

I am most thankful to the people of Meerut district for extending their sincere cooperation which made this work a lot easier and much more enjoyable. Their involvement at various levels is worthy of appreciation.

I would like extend my deepest gratitude to my teacher and supervisor of this work, Dr. Gautam K. Kshatriya for his constant encouragement and guidance. His knowledge of the subject and his dedication towards his profession has always been an inspiration to me. He has been extremely patient with me and his affection and motivation has helped me to move through the toughest times during the tenure of this work. I remain indebted to him for all his time and for all his efforts right from finalizing the topic and framing of the synopsis to the present day when I am about to submit the thesis.

I owe a lot to Department of Anthropology, University of Delhi for having provided me an opportunity to carry out this piece of work. I wish to express my sincere thanks to the present H.O.D., Prof. S. L. Malik and to the former Heads, Prof. Surinder Nath and Prof. P. K. Ghosh for providing all the necessary facilities and help at various stages of the work. I am also thankful to all the faculty members of the Department. I have learnt a lot from each one of them during my Masters course and they have all been really kind in the subsequent years.

I am extremely thankful to Prof. A.K. Kapoor and Prof. Satwanti Kapoor who were not only my teachers during the Masters course but also gave their kind consent to be the members of the advisory committee for the present work. Their valuable suggestions proved to be really helpful in streamlining the work. I would also like to acknowledge the support of Dr. Rashmi Sinha, who has always been very helpful.
I wish to acknowledge the cooperation of the non-teaching staff of Department of Anthropology, University of Delhi, the staff of various libraries and various organizations that were visited, and experts in various areas whose help was sought during the course of this work.

I am most grateful to my parents Dr. Ashok Shastri and Dr. Nalini Kumar, my sister Ms. Vishakha and my brother-in-law Mr. Udiyan Jain for all their love, support and encouragement. They have unconditionally stood by me at all times and this work would not have been possible without them. I am thankful to all my family members for their good wishes and love that I have always received from them in abundance.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all my friends and well wishers who have contributed immensely to the completion of this work. Each one of them has provided me the much needed strength to proceed forward.

Last but not the least; I would like to thank ICMR for the Doctoral fellowship (vide letter no.: 3/1/3/JRF-2008/MPD-69 (31131), dated: 01.09.2008) that I received. It relieved me of much of the financial concerns and allowed me to focus on the research work.
