ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The fulfillment of this research owes itself to the sincere contribution of many individuals who in their official and personal capacities have directed, monitored and nurtured the course of its outcome. Foremost I wish to put on record the continuous support, guidance and constructive criticism provided by my guide Dr Rajivlochan, Department of History, Panjab University, Chandigarh. This work would not have seen the light of this day has it not been for Dr Rajivlochan’s persistence, lucid comments and continuous encouragement. I am grateful to Dr. R Bhandari, Chairman, Faculty of Design and Fine Arts Panjab University for his support and unfailing encouragement in the fulfillment of this research, as also the kind cooperation rendered by the secretarial staff, department of Fine Arts, Panjab University, Chandigarh.

I also wish to thank the Unesco World Heritage Centre, Paris, France for the technical support and resource base provided. A special thanks is due to Mr. Ron VanOers, Programme Specialist, Modern Heritage, Unesco World Heritage Centre, Ms Sachiko Haraguchi, Unesco World Heritage Centre for their continuous data provision on the World Heritage Listing Process. For the data on Tel Aviv and its listing process, I am grateful to Mr. Jeremy Hoffman, Mr. Smadar Timor, Ms. Naomi Angel and Ms Nitza Schmuk; Tel Aviv District Commission of Planning, Tel Aviv, Israel. For the data on Brasilia I acknowledge the assistance of Ms. Claudia Estella Porta, Assistant Professor, University of Brasilia, and Dr. Fares El Dahdah, Professor, Rice University School of Architecture, USA. For the data on Le Havre I am indebted to the City Administration Le Havre and in particular to Vincent Jouve, Architect Urban Estate Services, Heritage Sites, France for his deep insights into its nomination process. For the ZPPAUP I wish to record the astute guidance of Mr. Paul Trouilloud, Chief Architect for the development of ZPPAUP; Ministry of Culture, Government of France. The guidance and constructive criticism of Professor Kiran Joshi as a teacher, and mentor cannot go unnoticed. I am thankful to Ms. Geetika Gupta and Ms. Meetu Malhotra at the Alliance Francaise, Chandigarh for their sincere efforts for the French to English translation of selected parts of the World Heritage Nomination Dossier, Le Havre, France. I am also grateful to the individuals who painstakingly completed the questionnaire for this research as part of the user survey of Chandigarh tricity.

I thank the Chandigarh Administration for granting leave during the final stages of the thesis, and the Principal Chandigarh College of Architecture for library access during this period. A special mention for Ms. Bhupinder Kaur, Senior Librarian, Chandigarh College of Architecture for her wholehearted support in retrieving resource material for this research.

Last but not the least, I am glad that, through this journey I was diligently supported by my family-Nikhil, Rajiv, for their undaunting and endless cooperation, my parents for their time, prayers and blessings, Rashmi and Sunny for their ‘you can do it’ to ‘you better do it’ attitude, and of course Aditi for handling the computer snarls. To this list are included many more anonymous friends and well wishers who have excused my absence from many important moments in their lives, to further my own cause. I consider this submission a god sent opportunity which I dedicate to Chandigarh, a city where I was born and live in, and a city which I hope will be nurtured for posterity by its administrators and citizens alike.
