ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In this exercise I have received help from many, I would like to pen down a few words of profound gratitude to The Almighty for enabling me to complete the thesis.

I deem it is a great pleasure to acknowledge my deep gratitude to my guide, Prof. Sushma Batra, Head, Department of Social Work, University of Delhi, for her keen guidance and valuable suggestions at every stage of the study. Her uninterrupted encouragement towards perfection and her personal warmth have been a source of motivation to me throughout the course of this study. I am highly indebted to her and hope her blessings continue to remain with me forever.

I owe my gratitude to the entire faculty of the Department of Social Work, University of Delhi, under whose guidance and training I acquire my commitment and research work/professional skills. My special thanks are due to Dr. Manoj K. Jha, Associate Professor, for facilitating the translation of the tools of data collection in Hindi and encouragement to complete the research successfully.

I would like to acknowledge my thanks to a number of experts who have enriched my study with their comments and suggestions. These include: Dr. (Mrs.) Pawan Sudhir, Project Coordinator, School Adolescence Education Programme, SCERT for her valuable support in providing Yuva modules and expert opinion on the research topic, Dr. Pankaj Arora, Associate Professor, CIE, University of Delhi, for his insightful ideas at the initial phase, Mr. Bilal Ahmed, NACO for sharing his experience of working on the issue of Adolescence Education Programme, Dr. Sushma Yadav, Project Director, Adolescence Education Program, NCERT, for sharing her experiences of adolescence education programme and discussing about preparing appropriate tools of data collection.

Thanks are also due to, all the respondents who took time out from their busy schedule for being interviewed and for sharing their opinions and ideas related to reproductive health education for adolescents these include students, teachers, and parents. My field work was enriched and made easier with the support extended by a network of people. These include: Directorate of Education, School Principals, SUPW teachers and school counselors.
I gratefully acknowledge the Library and reference services extended by the library staff of Department of Social Work, Ratan Tata Library, Reference library of University of Delhi, Library of Jawaharlal Nehru University, National Medical Library, Library of National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, Indian Council for Social Science Research.

My deepest appreciation is all for my family members for always being a constant source of support and encouragement. I am deeply Indebted to my compassionate Parents- In- Laws for their unconditional love, blessings and wishes. This doctoral completion is also the dream of my beloved Parents, their prayers and blessings has always shielded me in difficult times. My special thanks and appreciation are due to my husband Naveen Goel, who had nurtured this work in all possible ways to ensure its fruitful outcome. He had always been there to render any help needed and provided noteworthy suggestions to carry out the research. I attribute all my success to him. My son Kinshuk, deserves a special mention for always pepping me up with his cute smile and melodious laughter.

Last but not least I am thankful to all those who remained unnamed for their co-operation and generous help.
