ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Research no longer represents just the wild imaginative realm of thoughts and fantasies, but instead also deals with current topics and issues plaguing the nation. Working on the thesis is like a journey at the crest of joy and achievement often interrupted with troughs of disappointment and sorrow. Ph.D. is like a long way to look back from. In the process, one finds many people, who have helped one to come out of slack phases, dilemmas, and confusions, and who have shown the right path. There were many people who played a valuable role during this period. I would like to take an opportunity to thank and acknowledge all the people who have made this thesis possible.

This piece of work is the joint effort of many people. I may forget to mention many names, but in the core of my heart they are always there for their kind help and never-ending support. This work couldn’t have accomplished without the support of countless individuals. First and foremost, I express my gratitude to the people and institutions which have provided me with the necessary support and financial assistance for my education. I would like to thank Panjab University for providing “Golden Jubilee Research Fellowship Award” and Indian Council for Social Science Research (ICSSR) for providing me with a “Doctoral fellowship”.

I extend my sincere thanks to my revered supervisor and mentor Dr. Abhik Ghosh for his astute guidance, enthusiasm and endless patience. His support and detailed comments have helped me shape my ideas, realize my aims and complete this thesis. I am personally grateful and intellectually indebted to him for his wholesome scholarly output which enabled me to approach this research without reluctance of any kind. He played an important role in shaping my personality and perception. Moreover, I owe him a depth of gratitude that cannot be measured.

I am indebted to my informants and Great Himalayan National Park (GHNP) administration for their co-operation during the field work. I am grateful to GHNP and Forest departments for providing the resources, services and permission that made my research possible. I am humbled by Mr. Ajay Srivastav, IFS, Director, GHNP for his remarkable motivation, guidance and support that he provided me during the entire period of conducting my field work. My thanks go to Mr. Lambh Singh Thakur, IFS and Gopal Chauhan (director of the NGO under GHNP) for planning the whole study. I am thankful to Dr. Harsh Miter, IFS for his critical comments and support. Much of the labour and logistics behind my research was coordinated and carried out by the GHNP village community. This thankfulness also extends to Mr. Beli Ram, Account Assistant for providing all official documents relevant to the study. I truly acknowledge Mr. Hari Singh Sharma, DFO for his valuable comments and suggestions. In the thesis, all the data related to Horticulture and Agriculture was added under the kind guidance of my father Mr. Prabhat Chander Bhanoo, Additional Director Horticulture (retd.). I truly acknowledge my mother’s prayers, her blessings and her blind faith in me, which helped me to overcome all the obstacles. I am indebted to my Papa and Mummy for encouraging me throughout the work.

I am thankful to Professor Jindal, Chairperson, Department of Environment Studies, Panjab University, Chandigarh for providing the departmental facilities. It gives me immense pleasure to press my deepest gratitude to Professor A.S Ahluwalia and Professor R.K Kohli (Former Chairperson, Department of Environment Studies) for their kind help. I am grateful to Professor (Dr.) R.K Kohli for his cooperative attitude and valuable suggestions. My sincere thanks goes to Mr. Baghel (Assistant Professor, Philosophy Department) for his help and guidance. My gratitude goes to “Critique – Panjab University’s discussion forum” for enhancing my critical and intellectual growth.

I am thankful to all my hostel friends Menika Bawa, Lilee Mayanglambam, Komal Puwar, Nivi, Karanpreet, Monica Thappa, Tanima Majhail and Sanjam Upadhyay with whom I have shared beautiful moments of my life. My gratitude goes to all the mess, canteen and official staff of Sarojini Hall who made the hostel my second home. I have learnt much from many people in Sarojini Hall. I am thankful to the never-ending support of my friends Anu Sharma, Nayana Sahajpal, Rohini Thakur, Shivani Sood and Pratishtha Joshi. I am grateful to Renu Negi for her invaluable and unconditional friendship. I am thankful to all the support that she has given when I was struggling with different phases of my Ph.D. I would like to thank Raj Bala and Nibedita Ghosh for their valuable suggestions and guidance during thesis writing. The work wouldn’t get its proper shape without the moral support from my brother Mr.Chanderjeet Bhanoo and my sister Mrs. Sushma Kapoor, who trusted my abilities even when I had doubts myself. Their faith in me has been an endless source of strength and inspiration. The anchor of the whole saga is my dear friend Sandeep Sheoran who has introduced me to the field of Environmental Anthropology.
I would like to thank Mr. G.S Brar, Geography Department, Panjab University for helping me with the maps and without him there would have been no GIS work.

I thank Panjab University’s A.C. Joshi Library. This includes the extremely productive hours I spent at the ICSSR Section, Thesis Section and Periodicals Section.

I am indebted to the all villagers; I feel their innocent wishes worked throughout my work. The work would not have been possible without the generosity and insight of the many people I met and interviewed during the research. I am thankful to Mrs. Dhanwanti, Mr. Raju Bharti and all those villagers who had offered me tea during the chilling winters in December. I thank villagers for their warm hospitality and sharing their valuable knowledge with me. I am thankful to Mr. Hitesh Mehta (President, HM Design, Florida) for providing valuable information on Ecolodges and Ecotourism and to Ms. Jennifer Miller (U.S. Fulbright Scholar) for sharing her research work.

I am indebted to all those scholars, whose writings I have made use of with great profit.

He who thinks of Himachal is greater Than he who performs all worship in Kashi
And all things that die on Himachal and all beings that in dying think of His shows are freed from Siva in hundred ages of the Gods I could not tell thee of the glories of Himachal
