ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my duty to express my grateful thanks to Dr. J. K. Bhatnagar, M. Pharm., Ph. D. (Phila.), Reader in Pharmacognosy, for all his help, advice, guidance, constructive criticism, during the course of these investigations.

Thanks are also due to Professor K. N. Gaini, Head of the Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Panjab University, for his encouragement, and support, and for all the facilities provided.

I am thankful to Sir George Taylor, Director, Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, England for confirming the identity of the plant.

Professor P. M. Boll, Kemisk Institute, Odense University, Odense, Danmark, confirmed the identity of the compounds by X-ray diffraction and I am very much indebted to him for his help.

I am equally grateful to Dr. C. Grunwald, Associate Professor Department of Agronomy, Kentucky University, Kentucky, U.S.A., to Dr. David M. Piatak, Department of Chemistry, Northern Illinois University, Dekalb, Illinois, U.S.A., and Dr. Steven Nagy and Dr. Harold E. Norby, of the U.S.D.A., Monde, U.S.A., for the generous help with gas chromatographic analysis.

I also wish to thank Dr. C. Seelkopf, Universidad de los Andes, Merida, Venezuela for the pure sample of solasodine.

Lastly I must thank all my friends and colleagues for their instinctled help and support throughout the years.
