ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my duty to thank all those who have helped me in completing this work.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. C.K. Renukarya, Professor of Economics, my beloved teacher, a scholar and an econometrician, for accepting me as his student and guiding me in writing this Doctoral Thesis. I am indebted to him for his expert advice and invaluable guidance.

I thank Dr. K.E. Sreeramappa, Professor and Chairman, Department of Economics and Co-operation for his help.

I am grateful to the Department of Co-operation, Government of Karnataka, for having accorded me permission to carry out this study, and to the University of Mysore for extending me the privilege to do this research work.

I express my sincere gratitude to Shri. G.R. Krishna Das, Joint Registrar of Co-operative Societies and Senior Faculty, State Institute of Rural Development, Mysore, Dr. M.M. Vagghanavaru, Director, Regional Institute of Co-operative Management, Bangalore and Dr. R.N. Reddy, Professor of Human Resources Development, Vaikunth Mehta National Institute of Co-operative Management, Poona, for their advice and help throughout this study.

I am grateful to Shri. K.M. Nagaraju, Joint Registrar of Co-operative Societies, Mysore Division, Mysore, Shri. M. Venkatesha Gowda, Managing Director, District Central Co-operative Bank, Mandya and Shri. B.A. Mahadevappa, Deputy Registrar of Co-operative Societies, Chikmagalur, for their constant encouragement.

Grateful acknowledgement is due to Sri. K.A. Jadhav, Regional Manager, Regional Office, TRIFED, Mysore, but for whose timely help and suggestions it would not have been possible for me to complete this study.

I am extremely thankful to Shri. N.G. Rajappa, President, as well as Shri. Ameer Jan, Accountant, Karnataka LAMPS Federation, Mysore, and Smt. Shashikala Ugargol, Librarian, Regional Institute of Co-operative Management, Bangalore for their invaluable assistance in carrying out this work.

The informal discussions I had with the officials of these Departments and Institutions have been of great help to me to carry out this research work.

I am heavily indebted to the Chief Executives and Officials of all the 20 Large-sized Adivasi Multi-purpose Co-operative Societies in Karnataka for providing me the valuable and relevant information and materials on the working of these societies. But for their timely assistance and masterly interpretation of facts this work would have remained an unaccomplished endeavour. I am also thankful to the management, both elected and official, of these societies for having provided me useful insights into the working of these societies. I extend my thanks also to the management and officials of the LAMPS of other states particularly of Elagiri Hills, Tamil Nadu and Karanjali, Maharashtra for providing me useful information during my visits.

I acknowledge with thanks the help I received from Shri.N.K. Shama Sundar, Officer, National Sample Survey, Bangalore, and the authorities of Krishik Bharathi Co-operative Offices of Bangalore and Hyderabad.

I owe a debt of gratitude to Deputy Registrars of Co-operative Societies of Udupi, South Kanara, Chamarajanagar, Coorg and Mysore districts and members of the staff of their offices, and Assistant Registrars of Co-operative Societies of Mangalore, Kundapura, Madikeri and Chamarajanagar Sub-divisions and members of the staff of their offices for helping me with relevant information for my study. My regards are due to all the members of the staff of our office for their assistance.

My warmest regards are due to Shri. Ravindra Mattigatti, Senior Research Assistant, Central Sericulture Research and Training Institute, Mysore, Dr.R.Balasubramaniam of Shri Vivekananda Youth Movement, Kenchanahalli, Heggaddevankote taluk, Dr.H. Sudarshan of Vivekananda Girijan Kalyana Kendra of B.R. Hills, Shri.Siddappa of Ashoka Trust for Research in Ecology and Environment, B.R. Hills and Shri.Vijayakumar Gogi, Deputy Conservator of Forests, Chamarajanagar for their scholarly information related to my study.

I am grateful to a host of my friends and well wishers whose assistance and encouragement were a source of inspiration to me throughout this study.

I profusely thank Shri. Sathyam and Shri. Malleshaiah, Officials of the Post-Graduate Department of Economics and Co-operation for their help in carrying out this work.

I sincerely thank Shri.K.S.Ravish for his patient and neat typing assistance.

E.R. KRISHNAIAH GOWDA
