It is a general observation that the complexities of the job of a branch manager, particularly in nationalised commercial banks, are growing day by day. The present study is an humble effort to find out ways and means how to meet these complexities and make the branch manager more effective and successful in his job.

Your valuable co-operation is needed for conducting this study successfully. Attached herewith are three questionnaires on which you are to give brief responses (just by putting ticks).

The researcher undertakes to keep all informations strictly confidential and to use the same for research purposes only in which he is presently engaged.

Thanking you for your kind co-operation,

Yours sincerely,
