ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author wishes to express his heartiest gratitude and indebtedness to the Chairman Dr. M. Basheer Ahmed Khan, Director of Tourism Studies and Professor in School of Management, Pondicherry University, Pondicherry who suggested this problem and gave insightful guidance, sustained encouragement and constant help throughout the course of the study, without which this thesis would not have seen the beacon light in this path of research.

The author is grateful to the Vice Chancellor, Dr. V.T. Patil, for providing an opportunity to do Ph.D. in Pondicherry University. The author acknowledges the members of the doctoral committee of Pondicherry University for the valuable suggestions and technical guidance offered for improving the quality of this dissertation.

The author extends his special regards to Dr. C. Karthikeyan and Dr. H. Philip, Assistant Professors of Tamil Nadu Agricultural University, Department of Agricultural Extension for their illuminating suggestions.

The author wishes to express his thankfulness to Thiru M. Senthilkumar, Ph.D. Scholar, Dr. Rangasamy and other faculty members of the TNAU, Coimbatore for their steadfast inspiration and laudable counselling in bringing out this thesis. The flawless typing by Mrs. Jayam, an experienced madam is worth acknowledging.
Nothing can substitute the inspiration rendered by his affectionate father, Thiru P. Balasubramanian, Deputy Collector and mother Mrs. Indra Devi, elder brother Mr. B. Pandia Rajan, Engineer, younger brothers B. Parthiban, Engineer and B. Vijayan, Lawyer, sister Arul Selvi, cousin Ravikumar, Quality Control Engineer and his wife Revathi.

His acknowledgement would not be wholesome if he fails to express his sincere thanks and profuse gratitude to his father-in-law, Thiru P. V. Muthu, Personnel Manager and mother-in-law Tmt. Vasantha Devi, for their sacrifice and assistance extended to him during the period of study.

The author is very much thankful to his affectionate wife V. Mallika and daughter Githanjalli for providing moral support and timely help to finish this venture with success.

The author places his sincere gratitude to the Pondicherry University, Tamil Nadu Agricultural University and State Department of Agriculture of Government of Tamil Nadu for providing the golden opportunity and conducive atmosphere for learning without financial constraints.
