ACKNOWLEDGMENT

In the first place, I would like to record my deep sense of indebtedness and gratitude to my Supervisor Dr. Niranjan Roy, Professor, Department of Economics, Assam University, Silchar for his extraordinary supervision, advice, guidance and valuable suggestions from the very early stage of this research to carry out and complete the work. I am specially thankful to him for his guidance throughout the whole period of candidature, his patience about my progress and his kind sympathy and understanding of my personal and family circumstances. The work would not have been accomplished without his personal, intellectual and sympathetic help.

I am also extremely indebted and specially thankful of Dr. Suparna Roy, Assistant Professor, Department of History, Assam University, Silchar for her extraordinary co-operation and support she had shown at each stage of the completion of the work.

I owe an academic debt to the economists and authors of scholarly texts and articles quoted and referred to in the thesis. I would like to express my gratitude and special thanks to Dr. N.C. Das, Principal, R.S. Girls’ College for his valuable suggestion and constructive comments. Indeed, without his kind support and cooperation this work would not have been completed, I would like to record my gratitude and indebtedness to my beloved teacher (Late) Dr. Susanta Das, Ex Principal, Karimganj College who had sown the seed of economics in me. I could not have motivated to start all of this without his prior motivation.

I would like the opportunity to convey my special thanks to all the faculty members of the Department of Economics, Assam University, Silchar who have collectively contributed to my research work by giving their valuable comments and suggestions, especially during the periodical seminars. I am also grateful to my colleagues and fellow teachers who have encouraged and helped me in doing this work.

I am very thankful to Dr. Joydeep Goswami, Associate Professor, E.R.A., Business School, Dwarka, New Delhi, Prof. S.K. Misra, Professor, Department of Economics NEHU, Shillong for their meaningful cooperation and assistance in collecting some valuable materials relating to my topics. I am also thankful to the library authorities of the NCAER, Delhi, Delhi University, Delhi School of Economics, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi and the library authority of NEHU, Shillong, Jorhat Agricultural University, Jorhat for providing me valuable inputs in my library works,

I would like to thank field investigators especially Mr. Sanjeeb Sinha, Lakhipur and Mr. Pradip Das who helped me a lot in the collection of data, the State Officials who provided support and useful information and the respondents who helped me better understand at the village level.

I am deeply indebted and thankful to my family members- mother-in-law, husband especially to my little son and daughter, Birat and Barbie who had sacrificed a lot and contributed in various ways in completing the work. The encouragement, assistance and support from my family members and friends motivated me to achieve my dream of completing this thesis. I acknowledge special support from my husband, Mr. Biswajit Dev Roy, Assistant Manager, S.B.I. Tezu for being mentally with me during every upswing and downswing of my life. My special gratitude goes to my beloved father, mother and my father in-law who had inspired and motivated me a lot. My Ph.D. degree but unfortunately three of them are no more in the world to share my feeling of successful completion of this thesis. Without their blessing the work could not been completed. My elder brother Dr. Bijon Deb, Prof. Karimganj College and two sister Dr, Lipi Deb (Sinha) and Datta Dev deserve special mention for their inseparable encouragement, support and prayers. I would also very much thankful to my two sister-in-laws and Brother-in-law specially Mr. Debojit Deb Roy, C.A., Guwahati who always supported and encouraged me in completing this thesis.

I owe a special debt to Mr Rahul Chanda, Karimganj and Members of S Cube, Silchar for taking special care of the typing, computer editing and printing of the manuscript and bringing out in its final shape. Finally, I place on record of my thanks to everyone who had encouraged and supported me during the long period of my study.

Thank you

(Shilpi Deb)
