ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present research work is the result of co-operation and heartily assistance extended to me by various personalities. Through this special sheet I want to express my profound gratitude and indebtedness to them who have generously given their valuable time and moral support during the period of my research work.

This work would have been in dark without the untiring zeal and indefatigable patience of my supervisor, Dr. Niranjan Roy, Professor, Department of Economics, Assam University, Silchar. In every steps of my research work he has extended his kind help in terms of imparting constructive suggestions and a positive motivation. His immense interest in my research work has firmed my determination towards accomplishment of the work. In short his contribution in guiding my research work is unforgettable which made me indebted to him forever:

In the very next I would like to thank Dr. Dukhabondhu Sahoo, IIT Bhubaneswar, co-supervisor, for his enthusiastic support and a series of helps in performing my work.

I have no words to express my gratitude to Dr. Avijit Debnath, Department of Economics, Assam University, for his innumerable assistences to my work. His valuable suggestions and inspirable words acted as stimulants in my work. For his vigorous support while conducting research work, I am and will remain, indebted to him forever.
I am thankful to Head of the Department of Economics, Assam University for his co-operation. I am also grateful to other teachers especially Dr. Raju Mandal, of the Department of Economics for obtaining valuable suggestions.

I convey my sincere thanks to Mr. Shyamal Prasad Choudhury, employee of Cachar Paper Mill, for his wide assistance in terms of providing various information as well as suggestions in completing this piece of research work.

During my research work I have found a veritable ocean of encouragement, help and support from my fast friend Manash Roy and my family members. I express my sincerest thanks to my father Sri Surajit Das and to my mother Smti. Jharna Das for their blessings and constant moral support. In the same manner I am grateful to my elder brother Sri Supriyo Das for insisting me in accomplishment of the present work. I have pleasure in thanking Rajib Das for assisting me in the field work. At last I am thankful to the Almighty to bestow blessings on me.

(SUJOY DAS)