ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

As a result of the extensive surveys undertaken by numerous researchers during the last century, wealth of information has come to light about the various aspects of the pre and proto history of the Indian subcontinent. However, there are some regions where the pre and proto historic investigations are in their infant stage. The 'Malnad' region forming the south-western part of Karnataka is one such pocket where Robert Bruce Poote's discoveries in the later part of the 19th century indicated the presence of the Lower Palaeolithic culture. Subsequent works by Dr.Seshadri and Dr.Sundara, though sporadic in nature, are significant as they provided indications to the proto-historic culture of the region.

Considering the rich and untapped Archaeological potentiality of the region, Dr.Sundara, now Chairman and Head of the Department of Ancient History and Epigraphy, was kind enough to suggest this topic and even took the onerous task of rendering requisite guidance. Accordingly, I took up this work by way of extensive field work in the various river valleys of the Malnad region and to substantiate the surface collection of pottery, a small trial digging was carried out, the results of which are compiled in the following chapters.

In accomplishing this task, right from the time I registered my name, a host of authorities, colleagues, teachers, friends and my kith and kin have rendered invaluable help and it is my bounden duty to put on record my heartfelt thanks to each of them.

I express my sincere thanks to the former Director General of the Survey, Shri M.N.Deshpande and Dr.S.R.Rao, Retired Superintending Archaeologist (now Professor Emeritus, National Institute of Oceanography, Goa), for according necessary permission to register in the University. Dr.S.R.Rao, who kindled my interest in the field of archaeology has been a source of inspiration and persistently evinced keen interest in the progress of this work. My special thanks are due to him.
Shri J.P. Joshi, the present Director General, Archaeological Survey of India, New Delhi made it possible for me to complete this work by acceding to my request of transfer and even evinced keen interest in the progress of this work. Some time back as Joint Director General when he visited Bangalore, he was kind enough to examine the pottery collected by me from the explorations and gave valuable suggestions. My sincere thanks to him.

Shri M.C. Joshi, Additional Director General, who initiated me to field archaeology during the excavations at Mathura has encouraged me in this academic pursuit by granting necessary leave etc.,. I am, therefore, immensely grateful to him. Similarly, Shri L.K. Srinivasan, Director (Antiquities), New Delhi and Dr. I.K. Sarma, Director (Projects & Museums), New Delhi of the Archaeological Survey of India, have constantly encouraged me and were helpful in completing this work in many a ways. I offer my heartfelt thanks to both of them. Dr. K.V. Ramesh, Director (Epigraphy Branch), Mysore has been regularly enquiring about the progress of the work and encouraged me with apt suggestions. My sincere thanks to him. I thank my senior colleague, Shri W.H. Siddiqui, now Director (Foreign Expedition), for necessary help during the course of field work.

Without the blessings of a teacher, no student cana complete his work successfully. I was quite fortunate in having not only a good teacher, but also a philosopher and a guide in Dr. Sundara. But for his elderly advice, critical observations, supervision and persistence as well as encouragement, this work would not have seen its present form. I am, therefore, immensely thankful to him. I am equally grateful to his family members for their kind hospitality.

Dr. P.K. Thomas, Deccan College of Archaeology, Poona and Dr. K.R. Alur, Retired Professor, College of Agricultural Sciences, Dharwad examined the faunal remains and have given detailed reports besides holding scholarly discussions. Dr. Paddayya was kind enough to give his opinion about the Middle Palaeolithic tool assemblage from Kattebelguli. I express my deep gratitude to all of them. Similarly, I am indebted to Dr.S.R.N.Murthy, Senior Geologist, Petrology Division of the Geological Survey of India, Bangalore for the petrological identification of the artefacts.

Dr.R.M.Shadaksharaiah, Director-in-charge, Kannada Research Institute, Karnataka University has constantly encouraged me and even helped in getting the bones examined by Dr.K.R.Alur. My grateful thanks to him.

I thank Prof.S.H.Ritti, Retired, Professor, Dr.L.R.Shanta Kumari; Dr.H.R.Raghunath Bhat, Dr.S.V.Padigar and Shri Kadkol of the Department of Ancient History and Epigraphy, Dharwad.

I am grateful to Prof.K.V.Raman, Madras University, Dr.B.Narasimhaiah, Superintending Archaeologist, Madras Circle of the Survey; Dr.Krishnamurthy, Retired Superintending Archaeologist of the Temple Survey, Dr.A.V.Narasimha Murthy, Professor, Mysore University; Shri M.N.Katti, Chief Epigraphist, Mysore; Dr. Satya Murthy, Mr.K.K.Ramamurthy, Shri A.K.Sinha of the Survey, New Delhi, and a host of others for their co-operation and timely encouragement.

I extend my thanks to Shri M.M.Raichur, Shri N.K.Venkatashala for their kind enquiry and encouragement, as also my other colleagues Shri S.V.Venkatashala, Shri K.Veerabhadra Rao and Mr.Z.A.Arshad for rendering moral support.

A host of other colleagues and staff members both in the Madras and Bangalore Circles have rendered good help. I thank all of them.

This work would not have been completed without the blessings of my revered parents Shri Ponnappa and Smt.Gangamma. I seek their blessings again and owe them all that I am. My father-in-law
Mr. C. C. Subbaiah and my mother-in-law Mrs. Neelamma Subbaiah and my brother-in-law Mr. C. S. Ravee Muddappa and Mrs. Ravee (Nimma) have rendered invaluable help by supporting me both financially and morally. I owe tonnes of thanks to each of them.

To my wife Smt. Triveni, I only tender my sincere apologies for my unpunctualities and neglects that she had to bear all these years. She had been a source of inspiration all through my work and I am indebted to her for the care and help rendered in the work. My grateful thanks to her. I thank my sons Chit. Abhishek and Chit. Avinash who kept me in good mood all through my work.

My sincere thanks to my brothers-in-law, Mr. Vijay Paní, Mr. Purushottam and sisters Ashwini and Pushpa for their kind help in times of need and moral support. My thanks to my brother Mr. Arun Kumar and sister-in-law Vinitha. I thank all my co-brothers Dr. Ashok, Mr. Chengappa, Mr. Madappa and sister-in-law Mrs. Hansa Ashok, Mrs. Kaushalya, Mrs. Bhagya and Mrs. Vidya for their constant encouragement.

I will be failing in my duties if I do not express my gratitude to all the Village Panchayat authorities in the region, especially those of Benakanahalli and a host of villagers who were helpful during my field work.

My friend Shri Vishweshvara, Asstt. Archaeologist has rendered invaluable help in completing this work. He perused through each word and has made useful suggestions besides helping me in preparing the illustrations, plates, figures and binding work. My grateful thanks to him.

S/Shri Uniyal, Rajan, Shaik Saifulla, Librarians of Agra (former), Madras and Bangalore Circles respectively have rendered invaluable help in supplying relevant references. I thank all of them. I have been benefited by the personal library of Dr. A. Sunda. I thank him particularly for this great help.
I thank S/Shri Balakrishna Unnithan, V.M.Joseph, P.R.K.Prasad, Saravanan, Krishnamurthy and Kurup for preparing the maps and tool drawings of Mesolithic and a few Neolithic tools. My special thanks to Shri Krishna swamy (Kittu), Retired Marksman of the Survey for preparing drawings of the Palaeolothic and Neolithic tools.

Photographers have been kindly prepared by S/Shri M.M.Hadpad and M.V.Mallikarjuna. I extend immense thanks to both of them. I also thank S/Shri Palani, Elumalai, Tyagarajan and M.Loganathan for their help in preparation of preliminary photographs.

I thank Shri Ramani, Retired Steno of the Madras Circle who prepared the first type script.

Shri P.R.Jetty typed the scripts relentlessly time and again including the pre-final draft and helped in taking out copies. His sincere approach helped me to speed up the work. I owe tonnes of thanks to him.

This work would not have been taken the present shape had it not been for the kind help rendered by my friend Shri L.R.Sudheendra Rao, who inspite of his ill health took utmost care in typing the script neatly and took care of the layout also. In this endeavour his wife has also helped him. My grateful thanks to both of them.

Last but not least I thank the God Almighty without whose blessings this task would never have been accomplished.
